Lisbon premier ousted

LISBON (UPI) — The army overthrew Portuguese Premier Marcelo Caetano today in protest against the colonial wars that Portugal has waged in Africa for the past 13 years. Caetano handed over his job to Gen. Antonio de Spínola, the liberal-minded African war hero whom Caetano fired for saying Portugal could not win the seemingly endless African wars, the rebel armed forces announced. (Earlier story, p. 7) The announcement was made over loudspeakers outside the Carmo convent, headquarters of the parliament. Spínola's National Guard troops there Caetano and several of his ministers had made a last-ditch stand against the snowballing movement of army protest. "Right now, Premier Caetano is handing over the reins of office to his successor, General Spínola," the rebel announcement said. It said the handing over was taking place inside the building, following a cannon and tank assault on the building by the rebels.

Impeach panel narrows probe

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee was told by its staff today that the panel's impeachment investigation has been narrowed to focus only on the most serious charges of wrongdoing against President Nixon. The committee officially received the staff report at a meeting today at which it also formally approved a five-day extension to the subpoena it issued against the White House on April 11. The vote was 34 to 4, with four liberal Democrats opposing the extension. The return date on the subpoena now will be 10 a.m. Tuesday. Of 56 original allegations against Nixon, the staff, headed by former Assistant Atty. Gen. John M. Doar, reported that nearly a score of those charges have been dropped and that the final phase of the multimonth probe will concentrate on the five main areas: — The possible involvement by the President in the alleged cover-up of the White House role in the 1972 burglary and bugging of Watergate headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. — Possible fraud in the preparation of Nixon's federal income tax returns during his first term in office. — Allegations that in return for a pledge of campaign contributions the president ordered dairy import quotas to be lowered and price support levels to be raised. — Allegations that an antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. was settled in return for a pledge of financial help toward the cost of conducting the 1972 Republican National Convention and that the President had knowledge that perjury about the

Fixing charge to jury

(C) Washington Star-News
NEW YORK — An impatient jury, after a day-and-night session of crucial but tiresome courtroom oratory, will begin sitting in judgment late today on the guilt or innocence of ex-cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans. In its closing argument to the jury, the prosecution painted Mitchell and Stans as men who rose to the pinnacle of power in American government, used their political influence in a fraud probe, then lied under oath to try to conceal their crime. "They don't call a fix a fix, it would be gauche. They call a fix a request for proper help," charged the 37-year-old federal prosecutor, John R. Wing. Mitchell and Stans are accused of meddling in a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud probe of financier Robert L. Vesco after his secret $200,000 campaign donation in cash for the Nixon reelection campaign. Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., ridiculed the charges and said it was the only fix case in history when the investigation grew worse after the payoff. But Wing told the jury that father "won't" a successful fix, "it's a case of men... using their political power to try to influence the officials of the SEC on Vesco's behalf... in some way, however great, however small, but clearly improper and illegal."

today in brief

Fuel overcharging reported
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evidence has been found of more than $100 million in possible overcharges in fuel prices during the energy crisis, federal energy chief John C. Sawhill said today. Sawhill described at a congressional hearing the joint investigations by the Federal Energy Office (FEO) and Internal Revenue Service (IRS) of illegal speculation in energy markets, and of violations of the regulations on prices and pass-through costs.

Soviet trade boost sought
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent said Wednesday failure to extend non-discriminatory trade treatment to the Soviet Union and Soviet bloc nations will be regarded as American sentiment against improved East-West relations. Dent said "officials of these nations see expanded and improved trade and economic relations as a barometer of the status of our overall relations."

Liz, Dick split at last
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, who kissed and made up only last December, announced Thursday that their 10-year marriage is finished. The couple, who frequently exchanged expensive gestures as an expression of their love, made the announcement of pending divorce through a representative shortly after Miss Taylor returned from a vacation in Hawaii. Burton has been hospitalized here for 12 days.

Singer Owens sets China visit
BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Country-Western singer Buck Owens said Wednesday he has tentative plans to travel in the People's Republic of China next January. Owens did not reveal the length of the tour or the itinerary. The singer, recently returned from a six-week jaunt to Asia and Australia, He plans a 10-day tour of South Africa in November.

Key Brandt aide jailed as spy
BONN (UPI) — Federal police arrested one of Chancellor Willy Brandt's key aides and another five persons on charges of espionage for East Germany. The police spokesman said they arrested Guenther Gull, 47, and his wife Wednesday morning at their villa in Bonn's diplomatic residential Bad Godesberg quarter.

Kennedy pledges emigration aid
MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised a group of Soviet Jews during a one-hour meeting early today that he would do everything he could to help them emigrate. The 11 Jews told Western correspondents about the one hour, 10-minute meeting shortly after Kennedy flew to Amsterdam en route back to Washington after a week-long, factfinding tour. All the Jews have been denied emigration permission.

S. Africa's ruling party wins
JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Prime Minister John Vorster's governing National Party swept back to power today for a renewed five-year term with its separatist racial policies endorsed by a majority of the 2.2 million white electorate. Early returns gave the National Party (NP) a secure majority in the newly created 121-seat parliament over the main opposition United Party (UP) and the much smaller opposition Progressive Party.

TF proposal foes organize

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — A homeowner group Wednesday night organized opposition to the Sierra Life Insurance Co. proposed commercial development in northeast Twin Falls. The citizen group also met in an unannounced session with the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission. Tom Condie, a spokesman for the homeowners, said about 30 people attended the meeting Wednesday. They represented the area surrounding the project, although a few from outside the immediate area attended, according to Condie. The Sierra Life proposal calls for development of about 127 acres north of Twin Falls High School. About 35 acres would be used for commercial purposes with residential development on the remaining property. A public hearing on part of the project, including all of the commercial section, is scheduled for Tuesday before the city zoners. The hearing concerns rezoning of about five acres and annexation of another 45 acres. "We are strictly against commercialism in this area," Condie said today. "We are opposed to all commercial development in the area, not just Sierra Life." Traffic that may be generated by the commercial project is the primary concern of the citizen group, he said. "Everything is built around the idea that Blue Lakes North will carry most of the traffic to the project with other streets receiving only light use," Condie said. "But people, when they turn the best possible route, will avoid Blue Lakes and take the easiest routes," he said, including Falls Avenue Road, Locust Street North, Elm Street North and Julie Lane. The homeowner group believes heavier traffic also should be discouraged on Blue Lakes North, Condie said. "Blue Lakes is overflowing at the present time and we're talking about putting a commercial area in that will add to the traffic," he said.

"We think there's a strip commercialism that exists along Blue Lakes and we don't want more," he yelled. "The idea of allowing commercial development in the residential areas is a major concern of the homeowner group, Condie said. The group is worried "about what will happen after," he said. "Where will you draw the line? We're now fighting over for our area just for the city of Twin Falls. If they get this, where will they go from here?" Condie questioned. "One exception leads to another exception." The group met with city planners and officials during the second hour of the two-hour session Wednesday, according to Condie. The zoners "were very cordial and very nice," he said. "They asked for our opinions and mainly listened." "I'm sure that we'll have a good-sized number" at the public hearing, Condie said. Appealing for a heavy turnout at the hearing, he said, "We just hope that apathy doesn't set in and people don't think we have to live with constant change."

Senate aging panel slates TF hearing

TWIN FALLS — The U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging will hold a field hearing on aspects of the Social Security program May 16 in Twin Falls. Sen. Frank Church, committee chairman, will conduct the hearing. The location and time for the hearing have not been set. This hearing is part of a series being held in Washington and elsewhere by the committee. Under study are the future direction of Social Security, existing problems, financing, and other aspects of the program. The witness list for the hearing is not yet final, but will include public officials and representatives of local and state senior citizens organizations, according to Cleve Cortis, Church's press secretary. Designed to gather information for use in the committee's final report, the hearing will touch on how senior citizens view Social Security on the local level, and their suggestions and problems regarding the program, Cortis said. He added that the senator is strongly of the opinion that hearings should be held in the field if possible, to give local people a chance to make their

Protest milk cow slaughter delayed

WEDELL — Protest slaughter of pregnant milk cows from Magic Valley is being delayed. Loyal-Rountree, National Farmers Organization local chairman for the western Magic Valley, said today the NFO is gathering people for the protest. About 55 head should be sent out from Wedell early next week, he said. The cows are being slaughtered in protest of national importation policies undercutting the price of cheese, NFO officials say. Earlier this week Rick Curtis, NFO dairy chairman for the west end of the Magic Valley, said between 40 and 60 pregnant heifers probably would be sent to slaughter. The local collections of pregnant heifers for slaughter is part of a wider NFO drive to eliminate five per cent of its members' dairy cows, Curtis said. (Continued on p. 17)

Israel turns 26 amid war echoes

By United Press International
Jerusalem observed a somber independence day today, with muted ceremonies overshadowed by the day's anniversary of attrition along the rocky hills of the Golan Heights. An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said Syrian and Israeli artillery duelled during the morning on Mt. Hermon and the southern Golan Heights. There were no reported casualties. A military communique in Damascus reported fighting throughout the night for the strategic, 8,722-foot peak and said the clashes spread to other sections of the northern front. The Beirut newspaper "Al Hayat" said Syrian troops captured "Kfar," "Shebib," "de-Neir," and "Tahat," the largest point on the mountain. But a Tel Aviv military spokesman said he hadn't even heard of the position. There are many vantage points on Hermon with all kinds of names and it may be on their side of the truce line, he said. Israel, which observed its 26th anniversary today, had a military parade and dancing in the streets, timed down today's ceremonies of the nation's 26th anniversary.

'Fed' discount rate hike anti-inflation move

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve Board today raised its discount rate to a record high of 8 per cent Wednesday. The increase was from 7 1/4 per cent, itself a record, established last August. The discount rate is the interest rate charged to banks temporarily short of funds that need to borrow from the Federal Reserve. "I don't think it will affect us locally. But it will have an effect on the chain banks," Ken, Coiner of Twin Falls Bank and Trust, said. Coiner said banks already borrow money at rates considerably higher than the federal discount rate. The impact of raising the discount rate to 8 per cent would be "psychological" because it would convince many business men of the government's intent to tighten the availability of money. This will tend to drive up short term loan rates on large sums of money, he said. Rates on loans over $100,000 would be affected, he said. Rates on smaller loans and deposits are unlikely to be influenced as much, he said. In a brief announcement the board said: "The action was taken in the light of a recent rapid rise in money and bank credit and in recognition of increases that have already occurred in other short-term interest rates. The problem of inflation continues to be a serious concern to the board. Technically, the board approved requests for a higher discount rate from seven of the twelve regional Federal Reserve banks — those of New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond,

Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. The other are expected to follow shortly. An increase in the discount rate sometimes brings increases in other interest rates, but more often in recent years it has simply followed other rates upward. Even at 8 per cent, it will be well below the "prime" rate of other money market rates, which prevails, including the 10 1/4 per cent prime bank lending rate to business. Thus Wednesday's move may not by itself lead to a new round of interest rate hikes, though that was the question. The action followed an impromptu news conference Monday of Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve board. Using stronger language than previously, Burns made clear that the overruling of the federal reserve now was to check inflation and that it would not be deterred by the objective of slowing the growth of money and credit even if the homebuilding industry was damaged by the resulting higher interest rates. Mr. T-N says

'Fox' strikes again

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI) — The Fox, a mysterious scourge of environmentalists, has struck again after a two-year absence. This time 90 miles west of Chicago with some words of wisdom instead of his usual direct action approach.

A man who said he was the Fox called the Rockford Morning Star and talked about hydraulic cement, "one of the best friends a conservationist ever had." The miller, perhaps more mature Fox, also touched on "house" members opposing a scenic river bill.

The Fox had become known for his 1971-72 ecology exploits. During that period, he scrawled insulting signs across walls of industrial plants, plugged up sewer pipes and once slipped uncolored ink into the plush offices of United States Steel Corp. There he dumped a load of dead fish and murky muck on the executives' carpets.

The Fox also has talked to a federal environmental committee, testifying before a hearing by telephone. "I'm not going to say I won't be up another sewer to stop it from speaking filth," the Fox told the committee in measured, mysterious tones. "But I am getting into what I want to do in the first place, that is to educate."

"I became a pollution fighter because nothing was being done to prevent industries from poisoning air and water with their wastes. I had to wake people up."

"I definitely don't feel it is any more immoral for me to plug up a sewer than it is to dig out filth that is polluting out from under a dog or strangling a woman," the Fox said.

Key Demos back
foreign aid bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won support from key congressional Democrats for his proposed $9.1 billion foreign aid bill, which includes $250 million for Egypt and $350 million for Israel.

Announcing the package earlier a meeting with leaders of both parties Wednesday, Nixon said, "we must not succumb" to the "temptation to turn inward, abandoning our aid programs and the critical needs facing many of our friends in the process."

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the money is "a pretty tidy sum" and he will support the request, even though foreign aid is "unpopular with the country."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said, "I will look at it with an open mind. I will give it consideration."

House Speaker Carl Albert said that "during something I do not know about, it is a well thought out program that will be helpful to the Middle East, to the United States, the Arab nations and Israel."

On the other hand, Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee continued to call for aid to foreign aid, saying, "the Nixon proposal was a sign of his 'misplaced priorities' at a time of a big budget deficit, soaring inflation, and vast unmet needs here at home."

"Instead of continuing the discredited, wasteful foreign aid program for yet another year, I hope that Congress will pass my resolution to terminate it," Fulbright said.

Nixon also requested a total of $20.5 million for Jordan, broken down to $10 million in military assistance grants, $7.5 million in security support assistance and $30 million in military credit sales.

National scholarship for TF girl

TWIN FALLS—Sonia Strope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Strope, Twin Falls, has been awarded a $1,000 National Merit Scholarship.

Miss Strope is the salutatorian of the Twin Falls High School graduating class this year. She is a member of the mathematics team, the National Honor Society, Girls' League and girls' gymnastic team.

She is vice president of the Twin Falls TORCH Club and participated in the University of Utah Science Symposium. Miss Strope plans to study physical science.

About 1,000 high school seniors from throughout the nation were awarded National Merit Scholarships of $1,000 on the basis of demonstrated academic performance and high potential for future accomplishment.

A special committee evaluates such factors as test performance, high school grades and level of course work completed, achievements outside the classroom, qualities of leadership and citizenship and endorsement by schools in selecting the scholarship winners.

The scholarship is a one-time nonrenewable award. Miss Strope will receive a single payment of $1,000 next fall, after enrolling in a college or university. Her award was sponsored by Boise Cascade Corp., Boise.

Only five Idaho students were awarded $1,000 scholarships by the National Merit Foundation.

Gem reimbursement set

BOISE—(UPI)—Representatives of Idaho nursing homes and state health officials have agreed on an additional $1.25 per day reimbursement for patients that the state helps to support.

Duane Higer, executive director of Idaho Health Facilities, Inc., said the increase will help defray the cost of operating the nursing homes that will go up along with the new federal minimum wage increase in May.

Higer also said the association is working with the Department of Environmental and Community Services on a method of payment for nursing care services to go into effect at the beginning of the next fiscal year.

He said the new method will be based on individual facilities and operating costs.

and will include a controlled program to allow increased costs as they occur.

James A. Bax, administrator of IDHFS, said "our mutual desire is to develop a payment schedule that rewards the efficient operation of the nursing homes."

"Right now, the payment system is based on the cost of operating the nursing home and we would like to develop a payment system that would provide an incentive to develop an efficient operation and at the same time meet the standards we have established," Bax said.

Aging meet in TF

TWIN FALLS—A group of Idaho's top public officials will address senior citizens at the Idaho Conference on Aging here May 17.

Sen. Frank Church is the keynote speaker for the conference, which will be at the Fine Arts Auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho. Gov. Cecil P. Andrus will address the afternoon session of the conference and Rep. Orval Hansen will speak at the luncheon scheduled for the seniors.

As many as 700 Idaho senior citizens may attend the two-day program, according to Wil Overgaard, deputy director of the Idaho Office on Aging (IOA).

In addition to the conference, plans call for an arts festival and state talent show for May 18.

The public is invited to attend all programs.

Deadline May 1

HANSEN—Deadline for purchase of 1974 dog licenses in Hansen is May 1. City Council members have adopted a dog control ordinance which becomes effective immediately. After May 1, all dogs not having a current license tag will be impounded.

Fees are $7 per year for non-spayed and unsterilized dogs and $4 for the spayed females and neutered males.

Dinner's remains left by intruder

TWIN FALLS—A hungry burglar reportedly took time out to fix himself a frozen dinner while robbing a Twin Falls apartment early Tuesday morning.

Robert G. Parker told police the suspect stole a shotgun, two pistols and a wristwatch, and left behind the remains of a frozen dinner. Parker said the theft occurred between 3:45 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Tuesday.

According to the report, Parker was asleep in his apartment while the burglary was taking place.

Value of the missing merchandise was estimated at $300.

Police were also investigating vandalism and the apparent theft of a car which was taken for a test drive.

Local late owner of Yale furniture Co., 130 Kimberly Rd., told police Tuesday his store was broken into during the night Monday, but apparently no merchandise was taken.

Inter-county police the suspect kicked in a door at the store and caused some damage to fixtures. Damage was estimated at $40.

Employees of Magic Valley W. reported the apparent theft of a 1969 car taken for a test drive Tuesday afternoon and had not been returned to the car lot by 6:30 p.m.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said that although the car had been reported stolen, the person who took it for a test drive might have to drive the car out of state to indicate an intent to steal it.

KH Grange adds 3

KING HILL—Mr. and Mrs. Allen Mobley and daughter Ida were accepted as new members of the King Hill Grange Tuesday evening.

Dwight Southwick was given the fourth degree obligation by past master John Davis, assisted by Rodney Rubery, assistant steward, and Mrs. Cecil Bott, lady assistant steward.

Mrs. Horace Lipe reported on the degree work for the Rupert Grange last Friday. Plans were perfected to give the fourth degree at the Wood River Grange near Shoshone on Saturday evening when candidates will be present from Magic Valley, Dietrich and other neighborhood Granges.

* Plans were made to put in new doors in the Grange Hall.

Mrs. Lipe, women's activity chairman, presented Mrs. Arthur Greer with a sewing award.

A letter was read by Mrs. Frank Jones, secretary, from the Gooding Grange, offering to bring a fifth degree team to the Elmore county Pomona Grange spring meeting. After a discussion the members decided to hold the Pomona meeting at the King Hill Hall May 14th at 8:30 p.m.

A letter was also read from Judy Hooley, county health nurse, asking if the King Hill Grange would like to have a health screening clinic in the hall in July.

A communication from Mrs. Ira Kistler-Gooding, invited the Grangers to the annual Gooding Garden School on May 14th.

Flag Day tea planned

TWIN FALLS—The annual Flag Day tea to be held by the six veterans auxiliaries in the area was planned at a meeting of the United Patriotic Organization of Women Wednesday.

The tea will be at 2 p.m. June 14 at the DAV Hall, with a speaker program and refreshments.

session were Louise Innon, Veterans of World War I Auxiliary president; Maurine Terry, American Legion Auxiliary vice president; Lillian Arns, American War Mothers; chairwoman; Mary Wurst, Bellevue; and Mary McGonigal, Halley-American Legion Auxiliary; Emma Stone, DAV and Net Tisser, VFW auxiliary.

Supreme Court upholds bias

The Supreme Court took a step backward Wednesday when it upheld taxes which discriminate according to sex.

A Florida law which provides for a $500 property tax exemption for widows but not for widowers was upheld by a 6-3 vote.

A Florida widow had challenged the law, saying the state law was unconstitutional and calling it a "crude device that perpetuates Victorian assumptions" of the role of men and women.

But the majority opinion written by Justice William O. Douglas, said the property tax exemption for widows was based on "a reasonable distinction" between the ability of men and women to cope financially after the death of a spouse.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Byron R. White said the state "did not adequately explain why women should be treated differently than men" in passing out economic benefits.

The high court's ruling is a step backward in the process of removing arbitrary sexual discrimination.

There are two separate paths the society can take to eliminate arbitrary sexual inequality. 1. The law can make every effort to be "sexually blind," that is to consider each case on its merits without regard to sex.

In such an approach, if the state decides a person whose spouse has died should receive tax breaks, then it would not matter whether that person were a man or a woman.

Similarly, this approach would move toward equal pay for equal work and other similar goals.

2. Or the law can be used for "compensatory" purposes. In this case lawmakers would decide that women are in fact poorer than men, so it would try to compensate by reducing women's taxes.

Similar arguments for compensatory programs have been put forth in the job market in which hiring is accomplished by quotas for minorities regardless of ability of the worker.

Either approach could work if pursued forcefully, but in our judgment the first approach is the better. The law should remove impediments to equality without setting up new obstacles such as those inherent in the compensatory system.

But what we now see is a supreme court pursuing both approaches at once.

On the one hand the court has repeatedly acted to remove impediments. It has required equal work for equal pay, and non-discriminatory hiring.

But on the other hand it turns the argument around, saying women are in fact discriminated against, and so should be compensated with tax breaks men don't also enjoy.

BERRY'S WORLD

Remember, little one, money cannot buy happiness — if can!

JAMES L. KILPATRICK

Money primary need for realizing airship dream

WASHINGTON — It had been more than a year since I last talked with J. Gordon Vaeth, the dirigible man. I found him one day last week at the Army-Navy Club. He was looking more than ever like the commander of Jules Verne's Nautilus — trim, gray-haired, dark-eyed — and he had bad news and good news.

First the bad news: Private capitalism, so far as he knows, has not yet invested a nickel in revival of the airship. Now the good news: Some seed money is in sight from the government, and interest is soaring.

Vaeth, an old Navy type, fell in love with lighter-than-air ships as a ground officer with Navy blimps in World War I. He is now director of system engineering for the National Environmental Satellite Service, but he spends most of his spare time promoting the idea of building fleets of dirigibles to provide worldwide freight and passenger transportation.

In a sense, that is what Vaeth and his fellow enthusiasts have in mind. They perceive a need for a major breakthrough in transportation. At least $10 billion, here and abroad, recently were pumped into the supersonic transport plane. The SST was supposed to be a quantum jump into the future. It flopped.

The airship visionaries look the other way: They dream of giant dirigibles that would fly maybe 500 passengers and 400,000 pounds of freight at 120 miles an hour.

Last reported on this in February, 1973. Since then a lot has happened. Fortune magazine came forth with a stimulating piece last December. Vaeth himself appeared on the NBC Today show. A number of editorial writers selected upon the concept. In September the Navy and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration joined with Massachusetts Institute of Technology in a seminar on the subject.

In January the respected American Institute for Aeronautics and Astronautics held a serious session on "The Helium House." Georgetown University has a seminar scheduled for this fall. Most significantly, NASA's budget for the next fiscal year will include perhaps $250,000 for preliminary feasibility studies.

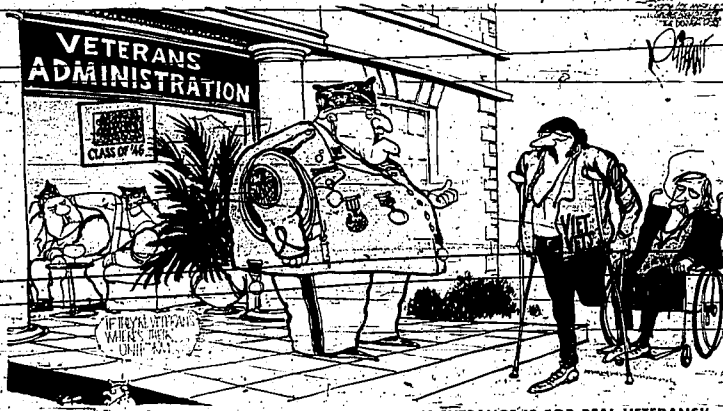

No one knows whether modern-day airships are feasible. After the proponents' enthusiasm has been appropriately discounted, some questions remain: Cost. Safety. Crew training. Prospective revenues.

Which observes, dirigibles take off on their own silent gas. They navigate with little fuel.

They can reach far into the interior of Africa or South America, and they can land and unload without monstrous concrete runways. Floating leisurely at low altitudes, they would provide luxurious cruise ships of greater economic importance, they could move tremendous quantities of lettuce, perishable fruits, fresh vegetables and the like from the West Coast to the East Coast in 36 hours.

Vaeth's dream is of a giant airship, the "Spirit of America" or "Spirit of '76," built as a bicentennial symbol of the imagination and boldness of the United States. Throughout the bicentennial period, it would make its friendly presence known in state visits, mercy missions, and disaster relief around the world. It is a captivating dream.

What it needs, right now, is money. (c) Washington Star Syndicate, Inc.

CAP veto threat policy hint

WASHINGTON — The effect on all government policy of President Nixon's struggle for survival was felt on Capitol Hill when Congressional republicans received this message: President Nixon will veto any bill to reinstate the Community Action Program.

The explanation is in the game of impeachment politics. With impeachment by the House increasingly likely, the White House must count on one-third plus one of the Senate to save him — at least 34 conservative Senators. Since Nixon has offended many conservatives with delicate and high government spending, he now attempts to appease them on peripheral issues.

The anti-poverty program began by President Johnson in 1964 is one Congressional have lost lust for its evaporation. But for five years Nixon has followed staff advice to reform, not kill, the anti-poverty program, thereby disobeying his own instincts.

However, when the Nixon instinct coincides with the politics of survival, the politics of poverty are changing. Community Action Programs have joined the establishment.

What's more, community action has Republican allies, including Rep. Albert Gore of Minnesota, once the House battering ram against Community Action. Even more strange is former Rep. William Cramer of Florida. A hard-shell conservative and implacable foe of anti-poverty legislation, a Congressional Cramer now is getting $25,000 a month for three months to sell Community Action.

Community Action in the voluntary ACTION agency. But they did think Community Action could prosper inside the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), urging the President to support it.

Cavanaugh and O'Neill turned thumbs down. Whether in OEO, ACTION, or HEW, Community Action funding would be vetoed by Nixon, period.

What's more, the President also might veto a bill for a new Legal Services program if the Senate House conference deviating — the final form persists in present trends. If so, Nixon will have vetoed the anti-poverty governing trick: OEO, Legal Services, Community Action.

This would satisfy conservative demands. Melvin Bell, ex-presidential counselor, was a counterforce to such pressures and today would be pressing Nixon to approve Community Action inside HEW. But Laird's successor as domestic policy chief, Ken Cuccinelli, is not one to argue with the President. He gave the President's orders to Cavanaugh and O'Neill to relay to Congress.

Consequently, the scenario seems clear: Congress will finance Community Action under HEW. Nixon will veto it, the veto will be overridden.

Nothing wrong with this plan

WASHINGTON — A group of men were having lunch at a well-known restaurant in Washington the other day.

Although they were in various professions, they all had one thing in common: They were away from home a great deal and their wives had said they were getting fed up with it.

Amazingly enough it turned out that their wives, who did not even know each other, used the identical phrases when complaining about their lot.

"Our wives' main complaint," Polyester said, "is that they have no one to talk to. The reason we're missed is they want someone to listen to their stories and give them moral support."

We agreed Polyester's description of our wives was accurate.

"Suppose," he said excitedly, "we had a computer that could match up complaining wives with other husbands who were at the road."

We all looked at Polyester and said "Aren't you suggesting wife-swapping?"

Acilian asked.

"In a sense," said Polyester. You swap wives just so that they have someone to talk to. Let me give you an illustration. I'm on my way to Boston and I feed the computer at National Airport the arrival of my flight and how long I'll be there. I also tell the computer how many children I have, my position in the firm and salary.

"The object of the computer would be to match me as closely as possible to my wife's status in life. The computer gives me an address and phone number."

ART BUCHWALD

At this moment there is a man in Boston coming to Washington, D. C. and he goes to his computer and asks for an address list of people who are in Boston.

"Okay, I get to Boston and I check into my hotel."

"Let's say my surrogate wife is Mrs. Dacron. I call her and ask when dinner is being served. I show up at 6 p.m. Before I even hang my coat, Mrs. Dacron tells me in on the day. She tells me how lousy the kids have been behaving, what went wrong with the garbage disposal unit, how much she paid for eggs and how she can't manage a family on my salary."

"At this moment," the man from Boston is at my house listening to my wife on what it's like to run a house when the man doesn't know where the fuse box is."

"Mrs. Dacron is thrilled to have someone there to let out her frustrations and my wife has someone besides the kids to talk to."

"But what happens after dinner?" someone asked.

Polyester replied "I go into the living room and watch television while Mrs. Dacron does the dishes."

"Don't you help her with the dishes?" "No. It would ruin it for Dacron if I did something like that. Then after watching TV I go to my hotel. Dacron, who presumably let my wife do the dishes while he read the evening paper, also goes back to his place."

The trouble with Polyester's plan is that not one of us could find a single thing wrong with it.

Logie lack perplexes Comrade X

(C) New York Times Service
CAIRO — I have had a letter from a Soviet official who asks that I protect him by refraining from descriptive information.

He alludes to himself as in opposition to the existing Moscow regime, from the viewpoint of free-thinking men who stand for our system but want to make it a really socialist and Soviet one.

The official, who may be called "Comrade X," urges that Western media open their pages to exchanges of views with Soviet dissidents. Comrade X is puzzled by apparent lack of logic in policy-making by the United States toward the Soviet Union. Just after World War II, he argues, there never was a threat of armed Soviet incursion into West Europe — except in the view of Communist appeasers in such countries as France and Italy where Communists were represented in local government. The presence of American troops in Europe frustrated "this hope of Stalin, he says."

While there was no true menace of classical invasion at the time NATO was created in 1949, Comrade X is bewildered because today there is widespread belief a similar threat doesn't exist. He says "the enormous increase of Soviet military power," he considers this "a cardinal factor in the international situation."

G. L. SULZBERGER

What, he inquires, can be the "hidden motive" of the West in now assuming it is "safe in the face of growing Soviet military supremacy over America? I cannot myself perceive the reasons behind this logic."

What, he asks, might Moscow be tempted to do "in Yugoslavia after Tito; in Spain after Franco, not speaking about Italy, already in a state close to the situation we had in Russia between February and October of 1917? Our leaders must think in terms of a pre-revolutionary condition."

Comrade X reasons: "For both sides the talks on SALT seem to be a smokescreen covering preparations for a time of turmoil in Western Europe. I know what the Soviet Union might do if conditions of civil war should arise in Europe. Could you, I presume, what America would do?"

"I am not a partisan of the order of things existing in the Western World. What I am afraid of, as a Soviet Russian patriot, is that — confronted with a Vietnam-like situation in Europe — America might react; and I fear that the first shots would come from America's side."

The pusillimous thus expressed seems to be a slightly distorted mirror image of similar confusion in the West. This lack of confidence — or both sides — is surely one of the greatest obstacles to advance toward world stability. And whenever else one might say "Meditation is encouraged by new violence in the East. The shipment of new arms supplies there by the superpowers, and the indication SALT negotiations have reached stalemate."

New deal looming for third world?

By NEA — London Economist News Service
NEW YORK — Even after it had opened the special session of the United Nations assembly was still being referred to as "the energy session" in some quarters.

The initial confusion on this point was understandable, but it must now be firmly disposed of. What happened back in January was that France proposed a UN energy conference as a counterblast to President Nixon's call for talks in Washington about the oil crisis.

The French move dismayed the Arabs, who foresaw that such a conference would give other third-world countries a platform from which to upbraid the oil producers for striking a deadly blow at their struggling economies.

Twelve days after the French letter had reached the UN secretary-general, he received another, from President Boumediene of Algeria, who proposed that France's idea of an energy conference should be broadened into a debate about all raw materials. It was the Algerian move that produced this session.

The Algerians and other enthusiasts have, however, found it difficult to get a united third-world line up behind their demand for a sweeping "new deal" in trade in primary products between rich and poor countries.

They are encouraging the formation of OPEC type cartels by the producers of bauxite and iron ore; and the Organization of Petroleum-Exporting Countries itself recently announced that it is asking its members to contribute to a fund from which loans may be made to developing countries that have been hard-hit by rocketing oil prices.

But this fund is still only a hazy concept, and the cartel approach has little to offer to poor countries that do not happen to possess valuable minerals. France's repudiation in New York of its call for a conference limited to the energy problem may yet provide a cue for the chorus of reproaches that the Arabs fear.

The presence of China's Teng Hsiao-ping — after his years in eclipse, has regained Peking's highest heights by rejoining the politburo — suggests that China will try to impose its leadership on the whole third-world during a debate that will give it ample opportunities to turn both Russia and the West.

Another development that will hardly make the Algerians' task any easier was the UN Secretariat document issued on April 5 which showed that the primary producers' terms of trade had improved in 1973 by 4.5 per cent — but that they had not improved in 1972.

But this is still only a hazy concept, and the cartel approach has little to offer to poor countries that do not happen to possess valuable minerals. France's repudiation in New York of its call for a conference limited to the energy

Taxpayer foots bill for 216 pamphlets

Thursday, April 25, 1974 • Times News-Live • Boise, Idaho • 5

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — George Orwell's "1984" may be closer than we think.

If you have any doubts about the growing totalitarianism of the federal government take a look at the 216-page "consumer information" pamphlet Sen. James McClure has mailed to his constituents.

An index of "Selected" federal publications of consumer interest it contains titles and descriptions of 216 different pamphlets Uncle Sam has prepared with your tax dollars.

While there are charges of 25 cents all the way up to $5.30 for many of them, some of the publications are free. Some duplicate material available to the public from the private sector.

There are some restrictions, however. Orders for free publications are limited to not more than two copies of any single free publication and to no more than 10 different ones.

Some, of course, contain sensitive information about the multiplicity of new federal laws and regulations. Others speak to safety, conservation of energy and ripoffs in the market place.

But, remember, this is only a fraction of the federal publications that come off the presses each year. There are many pamphlets outlining basic skills most adults have acquired.

Either the schools or the private publishing industry is not doing its job for the federal government is involved in an awful lot of unnecessary printing.

For instance, you can order — for a mere 50 cents — a 32-page booklet titled "So You're Going to be a New Father." Written last year it contains "information and practical advice for the expectant father."

Several years ago, the General Accounting Office — the auditing arm of the Congress — chastised the executive branch for publishing at tax expense a booklet on "How to Hammer a Nail."

Commentary

According to the spring 1974 consumer information guide prepared by the General Services Administration Uncle Sugar skips the basics these days. For $1.25 you can buy a 78-page 1973 "Construction Guides for Exposed Wood Decks."

Or for 40 cents you can get from your government a 23-page, 1971 booklet on construction and maintenance of fireplaces and chimneys.

Thanks to your bureaucrats you still don't even need an architect any more. You can buy, for 50 cents, a 30-page, 1969 pamphlet with sketches and model floor plans for low-cost wood homes.

Send another four bits and you can get a 23-page 1973 booklet on simple home repairs. Or for a mere two bits there is a 14-page, 1972 pamphlet on simple plumbing repairs, "How to Control Household Pests." All it costs is 40 cents for a 32-page, 1971 booklet on procedure and proper pesticides.

Recognizing some folks don't have a lot of money, your government offers some of the goodies free. You can have a three-page, 1973 "Facts About Feeding Your Dog" pamphlet for the asking. Also free is a 13-page item on "How to Wrap Parcels for Mailing."

Want some advice on the advantages and disadvantages of cooperative or condominium ownership? You can get it free in a four-page, 1973 pamphlet.

In the "just-pamphlets" category are fish receipts, 12 pamphlets on growing flowers, vegetables, trees, herbs, plants and vines. Or you can get the word on lawn-weed control and growing better lawns, information on how to buy used furniture or, for a paltry 50 cents, a 76-page jobber on planning weight reduction diets.

For 40 cents Uncle Sam will tell you in 32 pages how to remove stains from fabrics or for 25 cents an about sanitation in home laundering.

And, as if this were not available on any newsstand in the private sector, you can pay $1 a year for "Consumer News" and get twice a month newsletter, an consumer publications, laws and government rulings.

Are you listening, "big brother?"

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Blood supply cut

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I get dizzy, leaving my arms and upper body as though they had gone to sleep. This happens only when I look up or when I reach up into a cabinet and look up. Then all of a sudden I feel faint and dizzy.

As I know, I am otherwise in good health, I am 49 — Mrs. J. C.

This is sort of thing that can happen if, when you bend your head back, you may compress the arteries in the neck, which could cause dizziness.

Since you know it happens to you, guard against tilting your head back. Stand on a footstool to reach upper cabinets. If you stand on a chair or a ladder, remember not to tip your neck back lest you fall.

That probably is all that you can do or needs to be done about it, but I would report it to your doctor next time you see him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What cause symptoms of the joints, especially hips, knees and ankles? It is not painful, I am 28 — M. L. R. R.

Creptitis is a sort of grinding of various joints, and a lot more common than you probably think. Just bony structures rubbing together. It may accompany certain joint disorders such as osteoarthritis, but also occurs when "no joint disease" is involved. Nothing for you to be alarmed about.

Portuguese forces claim control

LISBON (UPI)—An armed forces group protesting Portugal's endless colonial wars in Africa said today it had seized control of the capital, in an apparently bloodless coup and called on Premier Marcelo Caetano to resign.

The rebels seized control of Lisbon and the Portuguese television service, proclaimed to the nation that "the hour of freedom has arrived" and said they had given government forces a 3-30 p.m. (7:30 a.m. MDT) deadline to surrender.

Despite the rebel claims, sources close to the Caetano government said large parts of the armed forces had remained loyal and that the claims of the rebels were not true. They said loyal troops were guarding Caetano and other members of the government.

In Lisbon's downtown Rossio square, at least 100 young persons staged a demonstration waving Portuguese flags and shouting "down with fascism, down with Caetano."

Neither police nor the military intervened. In normal times, the demonstration would have quickly been broken up and the participants arrested.

The rebels, calling themselves the Armed Forces Movement, took control of Lisbon's two radio stations and proclaimed their intent of toppling the government.

"We dominate the situation from the North to the South (of Portugal)," a communique broadcast at 11:05 a.m. (4:44 a.m. EDT) said.

"The hour of freedom has arrived and we will liberate this country from the oppressive government which has

The products are:

Pair seized

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Two leading members of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) were taken in a checkpoint in West Belfast and arrested, police said today.

The pair were identified as Cornelius McHugh, 37, and Dominic O'Neill, 36. They were traveling alone in a car Wednesday night at the time of their arrest, a police spokesman said.

for many years.

The uprising was reported by military men tied of the long history of Portuguese colonial wars in Africa. Portugal for years has been involved in trying to put down rebellions in Angola, Mozambique and Guinea.

The communique did not say who was leading the uprising, but it was the second uprising since March 16 tank columns tried to enter Lisbon to protect the African involvement but were turned back peacefully by loyal officers.

Two months ago the government fired Portugal's top military officers, including Gen. Antonio de Spínola, a hero of the nation's 13-year-old African anti-guerrilla wars.

De Spínola was fired after publishing a book in which he urged slow democratic reform of the nation and a negotiated end to the African wars because military victory was "favorable."

The rebel broadcast asked the population "to collaborate with us—otherwise we will have to enforce martial law. All shops must close to avoid people hoarding. If they don't, we will make them."

Diplomatic sources said the rebels appeared to be gaining support from many garrisons in the provinces. Spanish police reported that things appeared normal across the Spanish-Portuguese border.

There was no official confirmation of reports that the whole government with the exception of the ministers of education, information and tourism and trade unions, had been arrested.

By noon (5 a.m. MDT)—eight hours after the uprising started—there was only one report of bloodshed.

Several explosions or shots were heard in Lisbon's downtown area, the police district near a railway station. Witnesses reported the street littered with glass and two persons gravely injured or dead.

Khadafy accused

(C) Chicago Daily News
BEIRUT — The Egyptian government has all but openly accused Libyan President Muammar Khadafy of plotting to overthrow President Anwar Sadat.

In a statement issued Wednesday by the Egyptian chief prosecutor, the Cairo government stopped short of directly linking Khadafy to last Thursday's attack on the Egyptian Military Technical Academy in a Cairo suburb.

The prosecutor's statement said the conspirators "who failed in their attempt to seize the academy and its armory also planned to take Sadat prisoner and declare a new government in Egypt."

And in the most open and official reference to Libya's role in the conspiracy, the statement said the Egyptian leader of the rebellion "was in having had a long conference with Khadafy last week."

During the visit with Khadafy, said the chief prosecutor, "the establishment of a command organization to lead the revolution and its political activities was discussed."

Heist role voluntary, Patty says in message

(c) New York Times Service
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A tape-recorded message that the authorities said appeared authentic, Patricia Hearst, described herself Wednesday as a willing participant in last week's bank robbery.

She said not only that her actions were voluntary, but also that the weapon she carried was loaded and that she was prepared to use it. The message, which the underground group that calls itself the Symbionese Liberation Army was delivered to the city police at their headquarters in the Hall of Justice here.

Receipt of the tape was acknowledged by the captain of inspectors, Mortimer Melnerney. He said the message appeared to be legitimate and the tape would be turned over to agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who would further check its authenticity.

Melnerney said there were three voices on the tape. In addition to a voice identified as that of Miss Hearst, there was a message from the group's spokesman, who calls himself General Field Marshal Clinque, and another from a man who identified himself as "Tania."

Melnerney said that, instead of using her own name, Miss Hearst identified herself as "Tania." But it sounded like her, the police official said. "I'm sure it was her voice."

Earlier this month, when the 20-year-old daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, the newspaper executive, announced that she was joining the terrorist group, she said she had been given the name "Tania."

In the message received by the police today, Miss Hearst was described as speaking in a calm voice. She reportedly referred to her father on several occasions as a "pig" and at another point, according to the police, she called him "Adolph." She also referred to Steven Weed, her fiancé, as a "pig," the police said.

"It's the heaviest she's come out against her family," Captain Melnerney said.

The message was the first the police had received from the terrorist group since the bank robbery nine days ago in the city's Sunset district. Two persons were shot during the holdup and the group escaped with nearly $11,000.

Earlier Wednesday, the Federal Bureau of Investigation found two rented cars that the group had used in a supposed escape after the bank robbery. Those vehicles were found in a parking garage in the Japanese cultural center, just west of the city's downtown district and about four miles from the bank that was robbed.

However, Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the investigation, said the cars apparently had been in the garage only a day or two. He said the cars had been rented by a woman under the name of Janet Cooper, prior to the robbery.

Federal warrants have been issued charging four alleged members of the Symbionese group with armed bank robbery.

Assault suspects show no emotions

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Two young men who police say tortured and shot five people during a holdup stood emotionless in an Ogden courtroom Wednesday as prosecutors charged them with three counts of first degree murder.

All five victims were forced to drink a caustic drain cleaner, then lined up against a basement wall at a stereo equipment shop and methodically shot in the head. Three died, including an 18-year-old girl who was also raped.

A fourth victim remained in a coma today at a local hospital. Another survivor was recovering from surgery to remove a bullet-point pen the bandits kicked through an eardrum into his skull.

Dale S. Pierre, 21, and William A. Andrews, 20, both bellhop mechanics at nearby Hill Air Force Base, appeared in court Wednesday wearing blue jailhouse T-shirts and denim pants.

The two blacks were arrested at their barracks Tuesday night without incident. They both joined the Air Force a year ago.

Pierre, a native of Trinidad but a resident of Brooklyn, N.Y., told judge E.P. Zigler he would like to be represented by a local attorney, who was out of town. He spoke with a "slight French accent," Newey said.

Hansen council approves budget

HANSEN — City Council members of Hansen adopted a $154,026 budget Tuesday night following a public hearing. There were no protests to the budget which includes a $103,000 water revenue bond to be expended on the city's water improvement program this year.

This single item makes the city budget about six times larger than last year but provides only $17,000 for the city's general fund budget.

The sewer fund budget totals $11,070, and the street department budget is $6,004 with a fire department budget of $800.

In addition to adopting the budget, the council's special business session following the public hearing included action on a sewer ordinance.

The Council adopted an ordinance which will require all homes and businesses in Hansen to hook onto the city sewer system. This will become effective later this year when the city officially takes over the sewer system from the Hansen Sewer and Water Association. The council also approved proposed resolutions from the Farm Home Administration on the $103,000 loan for the water improvement project. Action was also taken to approve the law firm of Webb, Pike, Burton and Carlson for handling all city legal matters.

Emil Pike of the firm is now serving as city attorney.

POCATELLO — Randy Hudspeth, nursing student, was elected president of the Idaho Student Nurses' Association at its annual convention.

Hudspeth, who says he is the second male president in the association's 22-year history, is a senior at Idaho State University-Pocatello. He also says he is the only male nurse currently holding office in any governing organization in the state.

Hudspeth predicted future changes in nursing, such as private practice by registered nurses and increased aggressive activity by nurses,

nursing student for example, like collective bargaining. An ISU junior from Emmett, Dianna Scott, was elected first vice president of the association.

Further goals voiced by Hudspeth and Miss Scott include: increasing ISNA membership, striving for more responsible work to be assigned student nurses, with appropriately expanded pay, and sponsoring workshops for continuing education.

Hudspeth and Miss Scott will attend the National Student Nurses' Association 22nd annual convention April 29 through 28 in Salt Lake City.

TF to consider computer

TWIN FALLS — City Council members of Twin Falls will meet informally Monday noon to discuss the purchase of computer equipment. Plans are to purchase the equipment this year from revenue sharing money to place the city water billing and accounting on a computer basis.

City Manager Jean Millar said proposals from various companies will be discussed and a plan made for calling for bids on specifications city department heads and council members feel will meet the needs.

Millar said the computer equipment will not replace city workers but it is hoped the operation can be handled with the same number of employees now working in the city treasurer's office and city clerk's office.

In the treasurer's office, water billing now involves about 2,000 bills per week to cover the entire city service. Millar said this is the maximum present mechanical equipment such as additograph and other machine can handle.

He said it means the equipment and personnel work fulltime and if there is a breakdown and a day's time lost the department is in trouble.

George Hansen seeks OSHA repeal

BOISE — A former congressman trying to "peel back government a bit" called for the repeal of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

George Hansen, Republican primary opponent of Rep. Orval Hansen, also said in an interview that the federal government should lift all economic controls to permit the normal supply and demand to find a place to function.

Hansen served two terms as second district congressman, losing a 1968 senatorial campaign to Sen. Frank Church. He was in Boise Tuesday night in an ornamental swing around the state.

Although only about six persons appeared at a meeting in the Rodeway Inn, Hansen said he was encouraged by the response he had had in trying to put together an organization for his primary campaign.

He had appearances scheduled in Mountain Home and Jerome Wednesday.

Hansen picked out the controversial OSHA law as the one he said it was at odds with the usual American form of government. He said the law assumes guilt unless innocence is proven. He also said workers' compensation laws local administrators in other layers of government provide sufficient protection in the same areas OSHA controls.

The result, he said, is that the law has "put people in more jeopardy because it has given them less area to move."

On other issues Hansen called for construction of the American Falls Dam and the partially completed Teton Dam in Eastern Idaho. He said they had progressed too far to permit construction completed Teton Dam in eastern Idaho. He said they had progressed too far to permit construction to stop. In the case of American Falls, however, he agreed environmental concerns had to be taken into account before the replacement facility is built.

Hansen also said he favored modest government controls on financial contributions to political campaigns. He said he would not accept individual donations less than the $100 limit now required by federal law.

"We're keeping very careful records of everyone who contributes," Hansen said. He added people donating money have a right to keep their contributions secret if the law does not require disclosure.

For his own campaign, Hansen estimated he would need to raise $100,000 for a successful primary and general election. He declined to say how much of that he already had in the bank, however, and said, "the next few days will be a pretty good jumping off point" in his fund raising efforts.

Speaking to the small group of people who gathered at the meeting, he stressed the philosophical differences between himself and Orval Hansen.

"The question is which way do you want the country to go," he told one questioner.

Tax relief

TWIN FALLS — Senior citizens who qualify for tax relief in Idaho must apply to the county assessor by May 1.

Frieda Johnston, assistant director of senior programs at the South Central Community Action Agency, said the circuit breaker tax relief legislation passed by the last session of the Idaho legislature "won't do any good if the seniors don't know about it."

"Anyone 65 years of age or over, with an income of $5,000 or less is eligible but he must apply to the county tax assessor in person by May 1," Mrs. Johnston said.

Even though persons have applied for the exemption earlier in the year, they still must apply the second time because of a change in the law.

She said to expedite proceedings, senior citizens should take a statement of household income with them to the courthouse. This could be a statement from the Social Security agency as to their income.

Upset trailer blocks 80 route

BURLEY — A Blackfoot driver for Britt's Mobile Homes, Blackfoot and Idaho Falls, was delivering the house section when it was blown over, taking the truck tractor over with it.

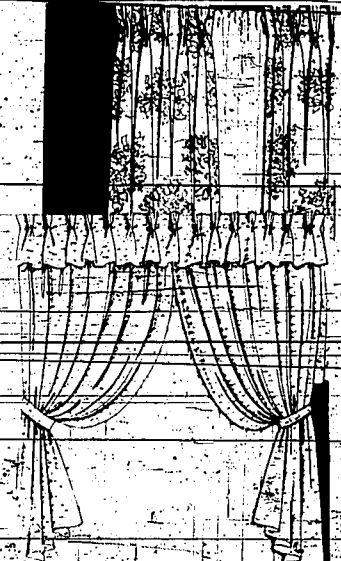

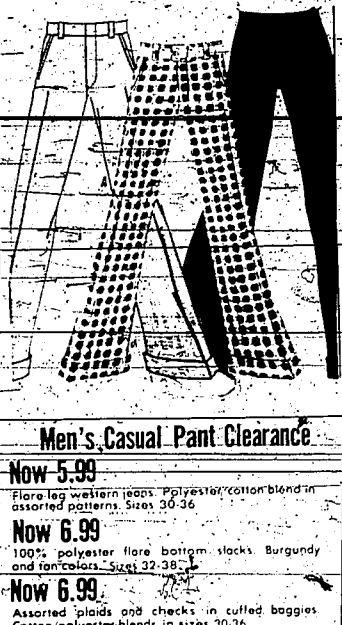

According to Idaho State Police reports, the house section, measuring about 12 by 66 feet, was blown over by gusting winds about 3:30 p.m. while en route from Boise to Blackfoot.

Southern Senator wins money for chicken farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Powerful Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., has won a victory for "little chicken farmers" in his state despite protests from a precedent-conscious colleague.

The Senate voted Tuesday to compensate flycatchers who were poultry producers who were forced to kill their chickens recently after the discovery of dangerous levels of the pesticide dieldrin.

The bill was approved 56-31 after only brief committee action — Eastland is No. 2 man on the agriculture panel — with no hearings and sent to the House. The bill could cost taxpayers up to $10 million.

It passed despite objections from Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, that Congress is now establishing a precedent of fully compensating businesses that suffer financial losses, regardless of their size or who was at fault.

Clark had said such grants were not given to victims of natural disasters, who qualify only for low-interest government loans.

The Iowa senator failed to get the bill sent back to committee, but did get amendments ending the payments as of the end of this year and requiring the government to seek reimbursement from feed companies if it is later found they were responsible for the contamination.

The Great Chicken Massacre involved nearly 8 million of the birds ordered destroyed by the government after tests revealed the presence in them of the pesticide.

The bill is designed to compensate five large Mississippi poultry processing operations. Eastland's backing apparently sped the bill through the legislative process.

There are no big people involved, Eastland said. "It's all little chicken farmers, and nobody will make any money off this bill."

Interest soaring in desert lands

BOISE (UPI) — William L. Matthews, Idaho director for the Bureau of Land Management, said today there was a "skyrocketing interest" in desert land that can be converted to crop land.

Matthews said that he has not received a clarification of procedures by which individuals can acquire national resource lands under the desert land laws. He said that he has not received a clarification of procedures by which individuals can acquire national resource lands under the desert land laws.

Idaho spuds lower

CHICAGO — Idaho potato futures closed 21 points lower Wednesday.

Commodity News Service reported active trading and attributed the loss in part to continued losses being posted by May Maine potato futures in New York. Cash markets in Chicago and Idaho have apparently leveled off.

Turnover was 107 contracts. Cash markets in Idaho were quoted at occasionally $15.00 per hundredweight, and at $17.00-$17.50.

Cattle post gains

CHICAGO — Live cattle futures posted their best gains in two weeks Wednesday.

Commodity News Service reported they overcame generally easier fundamentals on the strength of technical recovery.

Final quotes were from up 85 cents in December to 95 cents higher in August. Volume was thin with 8,890 contracts traded, reportedly reflecting the nervous and skeptical atmosphere in the pit.

Dressed beef, which has been as high as 65 cents in recent sessions, was unchanged to a full cent lower in the heavyweight carcasses, bringing the price down to 61.50.

U-I lists earnings

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. Monday announced earnings of $3,338,413 for the fiscal year ended Feb. 28.

Rowland M. Cannon, president and chief executive officer, said this was better than a 300 per cent increase in earnings from last year.

Credit tie cited

BOISE (UPI) — Donald L. Winder, Farmers Home Administration state director for Idaho, said today that a tie between banks and other lending agencies is a new source of credit for farmers who cannot otherwise find financial assistance.

Winder said the FHA already is offering borrowers insured loans and loans in which private lenders and the FHA participate.

Jerome sale mixed

JEROME — The market was mixed at Jerome Producers' Livestock sale Tuesday.

Fat hogs sold weak to 1.00 lower. Slaughter cows and bulls were steady to weak and instances 50 cents lower.

Heavy Holstein steers were strong to 30 cents higher. Light Holstein steers were weak to 50 cents lower. Choice feeder steers sold steady. Choice feeder heifers were steady to weak and instances 30 cents lower. Choice steer calves were steady. Choice heifer calves were weak to 1.00 lower.

Plan OK'd

WASHINGTON — Peter Hutt, general counsel for the Food and Drug Administration, said Wednesday the FDA will eventually approve use of recycled chicken waste in poultry feed, but emphasized there would be some built-in requirements.

These requirements are the subject of current consideration before the FDA allows chicken waste recycling, he said. Hutt said an appropriate mechanism will be implemented has not been decided on, and this has delayed approval.

Livestock

Couple recites promises

TWIN FALLS — Carol Ann Burgess and Ronald Bloxham were married in an April ceremony in the First Baptist Church chapel.

Ray James Hughes performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Burgess, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bloxham, Idaho Falls.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white floor-length dress with a cotton look lace overlay.

Her dress featured a scoop neckline, empire waist, bell sleeves and a ruffle around the bottom. The bottom ruffle formed a train. The neckline, sleeves and hem of the dress were trimmed with a dainty lace edging.

Her fingertip veil was of cotton lace with seed pearls forming the corners of small flowers on her lace headband.

She wore a pearl and diamond pendant and matching earrings which were a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride carried a french colonial style bouquet of yellow roses and white pom-pom chrysanthemums softened with baby's breath and natural foliage.

Carol Carlson was maid of honor. Mary Anne Keegan was bridesmaid.

Michael Bloxham was best man. Dennis Bloxham was groomsmen. Both are brothers of the bridegroom. Dustin Bloxham, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. Rick Bloxham was usher.

Carol Barnes was soloist. Willis Rider, pianist, accompanied her.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church, which was decorated in yellow, green and white. Members of the wedding party greeted guests before a backdrop of white nylon draped with green chiffon.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over yellow. The three tiered wedding cake was laid with yellow icing and decorated with white daisies. The cake was made and decorated by Virginia Bingham. Each layer was on a separate column with flowers and twinkling lights beneath. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom which had been on top of the bride's parents' wedding cake.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD BLOXHAM

Guests were seated at quarter tables covered with white lace over yellow. The centerpieces were white chenille balls filled with yellow flowers.

Vicki Bingham was in charge of the guest book. Gifts were received by Susan and Nancy Bloxham, sisters of the bridegroom.

Marie Fisher, Shanna Story and Sandi Summers served the cake and punch, assisted by women of the Challenger Class of the First Baptist Church.

The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers given by Mrs. Kay Burgess, cousin of the bride and Carol Carlson and Mary Anne Keegan.

The couple will reside in Lewiston, Utah.

Mini Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received by the library.

"Dragon Under the Hill" by Gordon Honeycombe. Fascinating — eerie — this is a terrifying mingling of half-legend-half forgotten history and modern psychological terror.

"Beyond the Best Interests of the Child" by Joseph Goldstein. Child placement laws are supposed to protect the best interests of the child.

"Theophilus North" by Thornton Wilder. Theophilus' fine ambitions and Newport's fine cities get mixed up in adventures, variously dangerous, tender and hilarious.

"The Conqueror" by Gertrude Atherton. Here is a great historical novel of America coming into being.

"Krumpholtz" by Peter Gustafson. This is a novel about a bungling American chief of police, Sardonio, surprising and laugh-filled and compassionate.

"Good Clean Violence" by Ivan N. Kaye. Here are the legendary coaches and here are the players of over 100 years history of football.

"The Russian Scientist" by Albert Parry. Today the western man in the street knows little of nothing of science and technology in pre-revolutionary Russia. The author traces the development of landmarked discoveries that were destined to affect the course of the world today.

"Richieu" by Lady Auchincloss. With the same grace and warmth that he brings to his novels the author delineates the character of Richieu with masterful strokes.

"I've Met Jesus Christ" by Michel Quist. One of the most popular and best-selling spiritual writers writes these prayers and reflections.

"Goodbye Mr. Christian" by Richard Dougherty. A personal account of McGovern's rise and fall. A sad, funny inside story of the worst disaster of American politics — the McGovern campaign.

The average retail price of meat has advanced about 40 per cent in the past 50 years.

BLENDA GOLAY honored

Student honored by CSI

TWIN FALLS — Blenda Golay, Kimberly, has been chosen Most Outstanding Student by the College of Southern Idaho Student Senate.

Miss Golay, 20, was chosen for the honor, which includes a $100 scholarship for her school record and activities.

An academic senior, her freshman year and student body vice president this year, Miss Golay has served as special events director of the program board, representing CSI at the national entertainment convention in Houston this year.

She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, which requires a grade average of 3.2 or better, and a member of the debate and discussion society. Miss Golay attends CSI on a scholarship.

Daughter of Willis and Venus Golay, Blenda has plans to attend either Arizona State University at Tempe or University of Utah in Salt Lake City. She plans a career as a lawyer.

George Washington was inaugurated as President April 30, 1789.

OES chapter honors TF couple

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. James Clark were honored at a belated dinner given by members of Twin Falls Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have served as worthy matron and worthy patron of the organization during the past year.

Following the dinner, Mr.

and Mrs. Clark presented each officer and started a gift.

A regular chapter meeting was conducted following the dinner and the worthy matron and worthy patron thanked each officer and all committee members for their support during the year.

Following the meeting, a humorous program was given under the direction of Arlene Groce, associate matron, and Dave Lovejoy, associate patron. After the program, Mrs. Groce presented monetary gifts from the officers to the worthy matron and worthy patron. Willis Rider sang a song dedicated to the worthy matron and worthy patron.

Nudity now spreads to Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nudity, now commonplace in motion pictures, is spreading to Broadway. Two stage productions offer women of the cloth in front of the audience.

One of them, Joan Byron, strips while hanging by her teeth from a flying trapeze in the opening of the new comedy "Pumpkin" which opened Monday night. She removes all her clothing, places by sides as she swings back and forth over the orchestra until she is completely nude.

Earl Wilson reported in his syndicated column that Miss Byron had the permission of her husband to perform the nude scene, and she said it was all very routine. "I didn't realize it was naked," the other nude scene in the production of "Ulysses in Nighttown."

Secretary honored

MURIAL MUTH, Twin Falls, was named Secretary of the Year of the National Secretary Association luncheon Tuesday.

About 250 area bosses, wives and secretaries attended the luncheon where Mrs. Muth was honored for her contributions to the Twin Falls NSA Chapter. Mary Barnes, first semester secretarial student, was presented a $150 scholarship to help with completion of her second term.

"Pessimistic Pete looked over the dummy and remarked: 'We have a pretty good play for seven, but since we are in six I had better try to insure my contract.'"

Pete took his ace of diamonds, led a low spade and ducked in dummy. West held the trick and led a second diamond. Pete, ruffed led a trump to dummy's ace, ruffed a low spade, cashed his queen and dummy's king of trumps, discarded his four losing clubs on four spades and claimed his contract.

The hand is worthy of considerable study. Seven would not be a bad contract. It would make against a better break in either major suit, but with the actual distribution of the East-West cards Pete's line of play was the only one that would bring in 12 tricks.

As a further point of interest, West had been one of those super players who see all the cards before the opening lead is made; he would have plunked the 10 of clubs on the table. Pete would have been unable to find any play to make the slam.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. Jones Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I wish to speak for the ugly men in this world, including myself. Ugliness is a terrible curse. It makes us ugly people feel inferior to the point where we seriously consider suicide.

Our social lives are deficient for few people seem willing to associate with physically ugly people. Without sex appeal we miss a very important part of life that the average person takes for granted.

My ugliness is not a bodily one. I am not grossly fat or painfully thin, neither am I deformed in any way. It's facial ugliness that has caused strangers to come up to me and say, "Gee, you're ugly." That is the God's truth. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel?

Ugliness queried

Abby, you could perform a great humanitarian service if you would devote a little space to a possible solution to this problem. Or perhaps a reader who has overcome his ugliness can tell me how he did it.

DOUBLE UGLY

DEAR-DOUBLE: Did it ever occur to you that "ugliness" like beauty, could lie in the eye of the beholder? Some of the world's most attractive and appealing people do not conform to the generally accepted concept of beauty, but that doesn't make them ugly.

The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way his face is formed. Honesty, kindness, gentleness, patience, compassion—all the virtues—can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty.

DEAR ABBY: When do you think of a man who watches television while making love to his wife? My husband never makes love to me in the bedroom anymore, always on the sofa in the living room so he can watch TV, too. And it's usually on the spur of the moment, which is not to my liking.

He was a lot more considerate and loving when we were dating. He's so afraid he's going to miss something good on television it has practically ruined our sex life.

Will you please tell me how I can get him back in the bedroom?

DISSATISFIED

DEAR DIS: Move the TV into your bedroom!

DEAR ABBY: How can we thank you? Because of a message in your column telling runaways about a program called "Operation Peace of Mind," our runaway son let us know that he was alive and well. He is only 16 and had been gone for nearly a year.

Abby, please publish that toll free telephone number again so other runaways can let their parents know they are alive. It meant the world to us to hear from our son.

GRATEFUL IN SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure, Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-221-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message to them from you. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your self-will not be traced, and the only question asked of you is: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it free of charge. I repeat: no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age.

MR. AND MRS. RUDOLF SEVERA SR.

Buhl couple plans 50th year event

BUHL. — Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Severa Sr. will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The event will be at the Buhl, Moose Hall on Main Street.

Hosts for the open house will be the couple's four children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Don (Lorraine) Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Severa, Mr. and Mrs. John Severa and

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Severa Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Severa were married April 29, 1924, in Stanton, Neb., where they farmed. In May, 1937, they moved to Buhl, where they owned and operated a grade A dairy farm until their retirement in January, 1969.

Relatives and friends of the couple are invited to the open house. The couple requests no gifts.

Englishmen make 'lazy husbands'

LONDON. — (UPI) — Englishmen are the laziest husbands when it comes to helping their wives around the house, according to a report by a British researcher.

On his day off the English husband gives up an average of 2 hours 43 minutes to domestic chores, the report by University College research unit fellow John Cullen said.

Cullen studied the household helpfulness of husbands in 12 countries. He found Britain finished bottom of the league. Top was Bulgaria. The average Bulgarian husband spends nearly five hours doing housework on his day off, the report said.

In fact, the most industrious men about the house were all in Communist Eastern Europe. In the West, West German husbands gave household chores 3 hours 21 minutes, Frenchmen 3 hours 19 minutes, Belgians 3 hours 3 minutes, and Americans 3 hours 2 minutes.

The report noted that the Communist countries tend to have larger families, older houses and few labor-saving gadgets — which trails for more housework.

But, it observed, that does not explain why other Western Europeans and the Americans have more help around the house than Englishmen when all have labor-saving gadgets.

Twin beds together cuts down payments

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Spencer Armstrong, 84, and his bride, Buehl, 82, are legally married, but, financially at least, they'd be better off if the Mecklenzie Manor Home for the Aged had just pushed their twin beds together and forgotten the ceremony.

Making a legal cost the couple $102.60 a month in Social Security payments.

A spokesman for the nursing home said the only change in its care of the elderly couple was "pushing two nice twin beds together with a big king-size coverlet." Otherwise, everything is the same.

Each gets the same three meals a day, a daily bath, clean laundry, medical and personal attention and a clean room.

Under government regulations, however, their combined Social Security income dropped from $412 a month to $309.40 a month. That is $52.60 less than the amount normally required for their care.

"I don't care," said Armstrong, still handsome and rugged looking. "I would have married this grand lady no matter what I lost. But I don't understand why we have to get hurt because we wanted to make things legal and get married and have a life like everybody else."

Ava Hood, manager, and owner of the manor, said "I'd never let them go." She said she does not know, however, how she will cover the cost of their care now.

Annuitant and his wife, the former Buehl Bailey, were married Saturday.

Local Social Security officials said the elderly who marry can expect to lose $70 to $200 a month in Social Security benefits and supplemental payments because government regulations "assume two people can live as cheaply as one."

Woman serves as mayor

CURTIS, Neb. (UPI) — In Frontier County town of Curtis, men are men and they trust Mrs. Joyce Petersen to run things.

Mrs. Petersen, 36, ex-beauty shop operator, housewife, and mother of two, is the mayor-elect.

She didn't have to fight hard for the job. Hers was the only name on the ballot Tuesday.

Her idea is to bring people together. As she puts it, "I kind of think of the philosophy, 'Divided we fall, but united we stand.'"

There's no crime to speak of in Curtis, a home-spun town tucked in the middle of sprawling ranches.

Air pollution is just a word, and sometimes the evening breeze continues to stir a faint wall of a coyote.

But there's government in Curtis, and Mrs. Petersen sometimes worries that it's getting away from the southwestern Nebraska community's 1,166 citizens.

Mrs. Petersen announced for office, conducted a "fair and square campaign," and became the first woman mayor in Frontier County history.

Incumbent Kenneth Nelson, a hotel and laundry owner who didn't seek another term, got 153 write-in votes. Mrs.

Petersen received 197.

"When I attended a council meeting and took a look at things, I decided to run," she said. "I decided to run."

Since the election, Mrs. Petersen said she has learned to tow the political line. She chose carefully her words when speaking of Nelson.

Twin Falls selects twelve Boy Staters

TWIN FALLS—Twelve delegates and three alternates have been selected from the Twin Falls High School to attend Boys State June 2 in Boise.

Frank Mogensen, American Legion Boys State chairman, said the 12 boys will attend this year because of the unusually large number of outstanding applicants.

Because there were so many excellent applications, we obtained special permission to increase our delegation to 12," Mogensen said.

They will spend the entire week of June 2 in Boise learning about state government by establishing and conducting their own administrative, legislative and judicial sessions.

Each applicant was asked to write his own views on possible impeachment of the President, the petroleum products shortage, and recommended dress code for high school students, Mogensen said.

Five of the boys who wrote on impeachment favored it and six opposed it. Six of the boys wrote on the dress code and favored continuation of the present policy.

Judging of the contestants was 40 per cent on leadership, 25 per cent on hobbies and awards, 10 per cent on athletic activities, hobbies and career choices. The final 10 per cent judging was on essays submitted with the applications.

The delegates selected include Jerry Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Atkinson, sponsored by the Lions Club, member of the YMCA, winner of the Key Award on the dean's list 1969 through 1974 and member of the Presbyterian Church.

Jerry Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, member of the LDS Church, Key Club, an Eagle Scout and member of the International Club.

Russel Shaner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shaner, sponsored by the Twin Falls Insurance Agents' Association, member of the LDS Church, student council, an Eagle Scout and Key Club secretary.

Others are Gary Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller, sponsored by the Elks Lodge, member of the LDS Church, MIA president, baseball and football captain.

Boy Scout, junior high athlete of the year in 1971-72; Allen Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elder Evans, sponsored by Lloyd Hamilton Insurance Agency, member of the LDS Church, was president of the sophomore class, an Eagle Scout and member of the International Club.

Tucker Woodson, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Woodson, sponsored by the Rotary Club, member of the Presbyterian Church, student council vice president, HIY president, Zappa HIY president and Interact Club; Dennis Molyneux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Molyneux, sponsored by Crowley Pharmacy, member of the LDS Church, was junior high school student body president, is a life Scout, placed third in the national math test and is sports editor for the Annual.

Others include Bob Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Woods, sponsored by the Twin Falls Republican Central Committee, Catholic Church member, student council representative, member of Interact Club, awarded best athlete in all sports; Craig Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reed B. Day, sponsored by Blacker Furniture, member of the LDS Church, student body president; Boy Scout, sophomore football captain, Explorer Post president, Church youth group president and member of the Interact Club.

Lloyd Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walker, sponsored by the Carl Berg Insurance Agency, member of the Catholic Church, YMCA Board, Sigma HIY president, member of the youth legislature and interested in astronomy.

Others are Douglas Hillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hillman, sponsored by the Twin Falls American Legion, member of the Methodist Church, room representative, captain of the track team, an Eagle Scout and a junior assistant Scout leader, and Gary Champlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Champlin, Kimbory, sponsored by the American Legion, member of the Methodist Church, Explorer post president, Eagle Scout.

member of the International Club and an American Field and youth legislative representative. Alternates selected to attend in the event the 12 regular delegates cannot attend include: Michael Somac, William Ward and Kirk Bagus.

Public mum on rates

BURLEY—No public comment was voiced at a public meeting with Bonneville Power Administration Tuesday afternoon in Burley. The BPA called the meeting of wholesale electricity customers at the Burley Ramada Inn to hear opinion on the draft environmental statement concerning proposed rate increase recently proposed by BPA.

The increase is expected to be slightly more than 28 per cent to wholesale buyers and probably about 15 per cent to retail users, Martin Derksma, area power manager for BPA, in Idaho Falls told the group. Derksma said the BPA is required to charge enough for electricity to cover production costs but attempts to keep the price low enough to encourage use of the power. Price levels are subject to revision each five years, he said. If higher prices cause less demand for electricity, power production and installation of new energy sources will be slowed, Derksma said.

Burley fire reported

BURLEY — A small explosion and fire were caused late Wednesday afternoon in Burley by a garbage truck hitting a gas meter.

The accident occurred as Teal's Service garbage truck was dumping a trash dumpster at 4344 Hansen Dr. A natural gas meter, serving Mayoral Manor Apartments, was knocked over. The meter exploded and caused a fire which burned trash and the dumpster, but did not spread to the apartment complex.

The Burley Fire Department arrived at the scene in a matter of minutes to extinguish the fire.

Tools stolen at Rupert

RUPERT — About $700 in tools and merchandise was taken from Electric Motor Rewinding Co. in Burley Wednesday.

Burglars entered through a front window of the building which is located on the Heyburn-Rupert highway, according to Minidoka County sheriff's deputies.

The incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's office.

Andrus speaks to teachers

POCATELLO (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told Pocatello teachers Wednesday night that his administration has seen greater progress in the improvement of education quality than any other four years in the state's history.

Andrus made the comment while addressing 300 teachers at the teacher appreciation night at Idaho State University.

"Today, in Idaho, the teacher is more appreciated than ever before in the state's history," Andrus said.

Accident probe under way

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho (UPI) — An investigation was underway to determine the cause of an accident at Teton Dam that killed one man and injured another.

Construction officials from Morrison-Knudsen and Kiewit Construction Companies who are working on the dam sought to determine whether the death of Norman M. Leatham, 21, Shelly, and injured William Medrian, 35, Idaho Falls, Tuesday, occurred when Leatham was injured either from a fall or falling debris. Medrian, a belt operator, was also injured in the accident. He was listed in fair condition at Idaho Falls Community Hospital.

BSU response given

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — The Black Student Union at the University of Idaho said Wednesday it has already given its response to University President Dr. Ernest W. Hartung's Monday reply to its demands.

"We decided in advance what Hartung would say and issued our response to him in communiqué No. 2," the BSU told a news conference late Wednesday morning.

The second communication repeated demands for minority hiring and for a three person committee, composed of Hartung, the Idaho attorney general and a faculty Black staff member, to investigate the BSU's demand for the university to audit the university's hiring and financial aid policies.

Hearing slated

BOISE (UPI) — The Public Utilities Commission has scheduled a hearing in Boise May 13 on a proposed rate increase for the Boise River Power Company.

The PUC also has scheduled a hearing in Boise May 22 on an application by Gem State Utilities Corp. to boost telephone rates in the Bureau, Grand View and Richfield areas.

Appointment set

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — A retired federal narcotics enforcement agent will take over the directorship of the state department of narcotics July 1, according to the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

Wilbert Penberthy, 55, now living in Bellevue, Wash., will be appointed to direct the bureau as a replacement for Robert King who was fired in January during a shakeup in the bureau.

Strike deadline set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The machinists union has set a new strike deadline against United Airlines May 3 at 3 p.m.

The new strike deadline comes after April 30 when wage control programs expire.

UAW and the union said negotiations for a nationwide contract with the airline will resume April 29, under the auspices of the National Mediation Board.

The airline said, if the mechanics and service personnel walk out, all flights will be cancelled, but the company will attempt to book passengers on other airlines.

Overtime payment eyed

BOISE (UPI) — State Personnel Director Richard Barrett says new federal requirements for payment of overtime could hurt state and local government financially.

These amendments to the Federal Fair Labor Standard Act require payment of cash for overtime. They disallow compensatory time off.

Barrett said this can have a "dramatic fiscal impact" on state and local government.

Mullan child dies in fire

MULIAN, Idaho (UPI) — A small child died Wednesday in a fire at her home here.

Shoshone County Sheriff Lew Gardner identified the child as Karen Chilson, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Chilson, Mullan.

David Chilson Jr., 18 months, was hospitalized with severe leg burns at St. Shoshone Hospital, but Chilson, his wife and three other children escaped injury.

Men acquitted

POCATELLO (UPI) — After deliberating more than seven hours, a two-woman, four-man jury acquitted Wednesday four men charged with violating Idaho's obscenity laws.

The Sixth District Court jury acquitted Joe Tovar, Tucson, Ariz., owner of the Galaxy Theatre in Pocatello and three of his employees, Henry Tovar, Dennis Ray McConigal and Carl Edward Baum, all of Pocatello.

The four were arrested last August on charges of violating Idaho's obscenity statutes, which state it is a misdemeanor to sell, distribute or intend to sell or distribute obscene material.

Sandpoint man seeks post

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. James Stoitchief, D-Sandpoint, has announced his candidacy for superintendent of public instruction.

Stoitchief, 46, has a master's degree in English. He teaches, coaches and works as principal in Cocalalla, a rural community near Sandpoint.

John Thompson goes over plans

Murtaugh gets first new business in starch plant

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

MURTAUGH — Work is under way on the first new business for this community in the past 10 years.

Decker-Stacy Manufacturing Co., Decatur, Ill., is building a starch recovery plant which will use the waste liquid from potato processing plants throughout southern Idaho.

John Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim D. Thompson, Twin Falls, recently named manager of the new plant, said crews are starting to back fill at the site on the northwest edge of Murtaugh and work will begin on the foundation by May 1.

Completion of the steel building is expected by July 1. While the use of starch from potatoes is an old process, this type of recovery of the product from effluent formerly dumped into sewers and streams by processing plants is a relatively new procedure, Thompson said.

This is one of the first such plants owned by the Stacy firm, which is a starch processing company with nationwide operation.

Thompson said the starch waste product from the processing plants will be trucked to the new Murtaugh plant in tanks. The waste will be in a sludge form, Thompson said. The Stacy firm plans to use the effluent from processing plants in Twin Falls, Burley, American Falls and Caldwell.

The effluent first goes from the transport tanks through a filter. In the plant where impurities are extracted, then into a feeder and lastly into the dryer, which extracts all moisture.

The final product, which will be flaky and flour-like in form, will be shipped by rail to the firm's plant in Monte Vista, Colo., for finishing.

Thompson said plans are that eventually the new Murtaugh facility will be expanded so that the processing of the starch can be completed here and then be shipped directly to customers.

But for the immediate future, the flaky starch will be sent to the Colorado plant for packaging and shipping to paper mills. It will be used in the process of cardboard making, Thompson said.

"It's a good deal for everyone," Thompson said. "The processing plants will make money from the waste product they were putting down the sewer and our firm will make money by selling the dried starch."

He said one consideration for the selection of Murtaugh for the new plant was proximity of rail facilities, natural gas and water. The firm purchased five acres and a sprinkler field, being designed by JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, for three acres.

The final waste product left from the drying process will be spread on the field and will dissipate into the ground. This residue is rich in nitrogen and the land can be used for crops.

Thompson said it is hoped that the former owner of the land can continue to farm the sprinkler field area.

The processing of the new plant also is giving the city of Murtaugh a development boost in that it has applied for a loan from the Farmers Home Administration to construct a well to provide adequate water for the new plant.

The Stacy firm will probably employ four persons at the Murtaugh facility, Thompson said.

Accident victim still critical

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man whose arm was severed by an airplane propeller last Friday remains in critical condition today.

According to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital officials, however, John Jess Laughlin, 38, has shown improvement since Monday.

Laughlin was injured Friday evening when he and a companion were attempting to start a rental plane engine with jumper cables from a car prior to an intended trip to Jackson, Nev.

Once the plane's engine caught, Laughlin walked between the spinning propeller and the car, possibly being drawn into the propeller by the engine.

Laughlin's left arm was severed at the shoulder and he also suffered injury to lung and head tissue.

MMVH public relations officer Mary Goe said this morning that although Laughlin remains in critical condition his vital signs have improved since early in the week.

Filer family safe

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — The Richard Kapp family, Filer, was tired, hungry and thirsty, but otherwise all right after an unexpected overnight stay in the desert Tuesday.

According to Lincoln County Sheriff B. J. Anderson, the family suffered mostly from thirst and hunger before being rescued Wednesday.

Anderson said the Kapp's pickup truck became stuck about 2 p.m. Tuesday when they attempted to cross a ditch in the desert area west of Magic Reservoir. They were unable to get it out after several attempts.

Kapp, 40, said his wife, Linda, 38, and their 3-year-old son walked toward Highway 89 where they could see lights until after midnight, but decided they had better stop since they were on the canyon rim at the west end of Magic Reservoir. He said they had no sleeping bag and a blanket, but no food or water.

Davis said Kapp told him that he started walking at daylight Wednesday and arrived at the West Magic Reservoir Lodge just before 1 p.m. Lincoln County officers were alerted and Davis said he picked up Kapp at the resort. He had obtained food and water for his wife and son and they went and picked them up.

Davis said that with the help of Paul Cox, Camas County sheriff, and Jim Finch, Idaho state patrolman, they were able to pull Kapp's pickup out of the ditch using one of Lincoln County's four-wheel-drive vehicles.

He offered no action plans as yet but said definite questions remain as to the constitutionality of the law, concerned with imminent domain rights.

"We have to see whether the regulations are in line with the general laws," he said.

Parsons said he and Kidwell had been retained on a voluntary basis since last summer.

Obsidian residents have contributed money to the SNRA for the purpose of research. He didn't know how much had been given.

"We are retained on a voluntary basis," he said. "We are not representing any individuals per se but serving the group as a whole."

Parsons said he has no comment to representing individual actions concerning scenic easements. The forest service is attempting to purchase.

E. W. Nichols and James Decker, Obsidian landowners, said the Obsidian Association had donated nearly $17,000 to retain the lawyers.

Obsidian group, lawyers map battle

OBSDIAN — The Obsidian Association has retained two lawyers to fight future deals in dealings with Sawtooth National Recreation Area proposals.

The proposals include the classification of the west side of US 93 through Obsidian as agricultural, thus making all buildings on that side non-conforming.

Wayne Kidwell, well-known Boise attorney, and William Parsons, Burley, are serving as lawyers for the group.

According to Parsons, the group has been researching the new regulations to see what course of action we could take.

A group of SNRA regulations were released two weeks ago by the US Forest Service. Parsons said he and Kidwell would have to research thoroughly the regulations before deciding on a course of action.

"We still have to do a lot of research to see if sufficient grounds are there to contest the regulations pursuant to the rights given to those landowners under law p. 1, 92-400 creation of the SNRA."

Blaine highway proposal meets stiff opposition

By BART QUENNEL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Highway proposals considering a four-lane highway through the Wood River Valley met stiff opposition here again Wednesday night.

A large crowd, jammed a hearing room at the Holiday Inn, stressing the need for an improved two-lane road and objecting vigorously to a four-lane proposal.

The two public hearings were requirements set by the Idaho Highway Department before a decision can be made on a route through the Wood River Valley.

The study stretches from the State Highway 60 junction through Ketchum, ending about seven miles north of the city limits. It also includes the stretch of road between Ketchum and Sun Valley.

One man did offer testimony supporting a four-lane highway, Albert Murphy, Hailey said. Building a highway now is going to be a terrible impact on the valley, he said.

He added, if just two-lane right-of-way is obtained now, the price will be exorbitant to get a highway through the Wood River Valley in the future.

NFO protest strikes snag

Pregnant heifers, cows at the verge of calving for the first time, have the longest milking life span ahead.

Bill Kerner, NFO-Boise area dairy representative, said Wednesday that about 200 head of "excellent dairy cows" had been selected for slaughter at a SNRA area.

One of Kerner's lastest, zero milking heifers and milking cows, most of which would have continued milking under normal price conditions. If the cheese price drops are directly passed on to dairymen, the price they receive for milk will be 60 cents per hundredweight less than received previously.

"There isn't a cow in the state of Idaho now that's going to make the cost of production plus a reasonable profit," Kerner said. He asserted that the poorly producing cows must have been culled and that "any animal slaughtered now are 'pretty poor cows.'"

John Yrgeus, assistant manager at Coast Packing Co. in Ontario, Ore., said Wednesday afternoon that the cows brought in for slaughter "did look like good milking cows." He said that many more milking cows will probably be bred back.

Earlier in the day, however, Yrgeus said, "A lot looks like culling (normal elimination) of the poorer part of the herd." He said that the cows did not appear pregnant and that some of the animals were not milk cows but beef cattle.

Cleanup completed

TWIN FALLS — The carcasses of at least 18 horses destroyed in the Frontier Field stable fire Sunday night have been removed.

Deputy-Deputy City Manager Jean Milar that the carcasses be removed by the Sanitation Department before they become a health hazard, the carcasses of the horses were removed before city crews got to the site.

CUT International, formerly Idaho Horse and Tailor, removed the last of the carcasses Tuesday afternoon.

Milar on Tuesday had made city crews available to Frontier Field and to the College of Southern Idaho, which owns the field, to prevent a health hazard, but in cooperation with Frontier Field operators and Sliger's Wrecker Service, already had the clean-up process well underway.

CUT International, Jennings said today that workers for the fallow firm removed several of the horses on Monday and the final removal was completed Tuesday.

CUT provided a truck and crew for the removal operation, Jennings said, while Sliger's provided a loader for lifting the carcasses into the truck.

"You have no real problem getting property now," Murphy said. "I think we have to take the long view and do it as it has to be done. If we stop with just a two-lane highway through here, we'll pay through the nose later."

Charles McGraw, Ketchum, 35-year-old official with the Idaho Highway Department, said transportation systems were so low. "These figures don't reflect those of the Sun Valley Bus Service," he said.

Doug Myhre, an engineering consultant for the project, said the figures were taken in 1972 and were made on estimates of future north-south riders on US 93.

Morroé answered, "There is no alternate service on US 93. And if that's the case, I'd say this figure book is erroneous and I might as well burn it."

Earlier in the meeting, Murphy said that the district engineers said the cost of the environmental impact and alternate location booklets had cost $25,000.

He said that the cost of the impact studies was not enough to get the way on the existing road. In order to obtain federal funding, we have to meet design standards. The standards would include right-of-way, bridge, drainage, etc. We have to do the program with the ultimate design in mind.

A Bellevue resident asked who was responsible for having the study drafted.

Lloyd Barron, vice chairman of the board of highway trustees, suggested that the Idaho Highway Department suggested the study. The highway we have here is not adequate for the traffic and, I might add, the $93,000 environmental statement is required by law.

One questioner asked highway officials how they were going to fund the Wood River Valley. None of them raised their hands.

Brian Clark, Ketchum, asked Richard Clements, area federal engineer, if it was possible to get federal funding for a two-lane highway.

Clements said, "With the traffic forecasts on this project, it is unlikely."

Barron continued that a two-lane highway could be built with state funds, but the expense would keep the project going indefinitely.

Blaine eyes flood threat

HAILEY — The Big Wood River measured 4.6 feet Wednesday morning and may soon pose flood threat.

The flood stage for the river is 4.5 feet.

Deputy watermaster on the Big Wood, W. H. Widdowson, said the river is now at 4.6 feet in the next two or three weeks. May is normally the highest runoff month, according to Watta.

Watta said the river rose 3 percent from Tuesday to Wednesday, which is the highest rise this year.

Watta, who has been reading the water levels on the river since 1946, said this year could "very definitely be in the same class as some of the heavy water years."

Although he said there were very few places along the flood stage, some areas around Grinnel and the gravel pits near Blaine may soon begin to run over.

Dikes are built around several houses at Grinnel but Watta questioned their strength if water did reach large flood proportions. Watta said, however, the runoff for this time of year is normal.

Doug Bishop, a Soil Conservation Service official, said he didn't know what the situation is yet. An SCS crew will begin next week taking readings of snow depth and water content on the higher watershed.

Snow depth measured 106 inches on April 19 in some places, but Bishop said that level is probably down.

"As long as it stays cool at night at the higher elevations, that should stop the runoff a little," Bishop said.

Bishop cautioned that if it starts raining and plays warm, the river will probably overflow its banks. Magic Reservoir has filled to capacity and the overflow from Big Wood's tributaries is being diverted into the Magic Reservoir.

Decker from Magic Reservoir increased Wednesday adding to the flood threat.

Residents along the water course should be alert to the climbing levels and take necessary precautions to prevent property damage and loss of life.

The National Weather Service report shows the upper air flow has become more westerly and temperatures are returning to near seasonal.

Most Magic Valley temperatures will range in the 40s during the week ending the daytime and in the 20s and 30s at night with a cooling trend, expected to stabilize the runoff by Saturday.

Although the outflow from the reservoir has increased some measures are being taken to divert excess flow into the Lincoln diversion canals to keep the flow down through Shoshone and Gooding.

Nichols said he contacted the forest service concerning the land value and how it had risen in the past few years. He said the forest service told him their price would be equitable in purchasing the land.

Decker would like to sell his lots on the west side. "Nobody will buy those lots now," he said.

The Decker family has crisscrossed the area for the last two years. They've applied real pressure for the last four. The forest service will have to buy those lots, nobody else will.

Decker also said he would continue with his shale operation through the April 29 deadline until the forest service bought the easement from him for his collection of his property.

He said a definite 500 yards of shale had been contracted with the possibility of 40,000 to 50,000 to be sold in the near future.

Decker has cleared a snow path to the pit but has extracted very little shale up to now. He has about the 500 yards hauled now. The final regulations take effect in five days.

Wendell trustees ask bond passage

WENDELL — Wendell School District trustees are asking school patrons for the third time to pass a bond election.

The $905,000 bond issue, if approved, would provide a four-classroom elementary school addition, vocational agriculture and industrial arts shops and a P.E. complex to be constructed three blocks east of the high school on 40 acres purchased in 1972 for $72,000. The two previous bond elections, which failed by narrow margins, included an addition for the junior high rather than the elementary school. Board members blame voter apathy for the earlier failures.

"We're just going to keep trying, even if this doesn't pass, the problem doesn't go away. It keeps increasing," board member Fred Maltz said. "We're trying to accomplish the most for the kids, the most important asset and investment we have are the kids in the district," he continued.

The bond issue will require an 11-mill increase in the levy over a 36-month period which could be decreased with growth in the town and subsequent increased valuation of the district.

School patrons are currently paying 5.3 mills on a previous bond which would be consolidated with the proposed 11-mill increase, according to fiscal agent Richard Nichols, father of the district's first-born child.

School patrons should calculate the 11-mill increase on the assessed valuation of their property to find out how much their taxes will rise, LaRue explained.

If approved the district would hire a new P.E. teacher and a new industrial arts teacher to meet the expanded programs offered, LaRue said. He said all present facilities would be put to use. The vocational building would be converted to an arts and crafts room and storage and the present arts and crafts room could be used for a junior high student center and additional lockers.

In pointing out the need for the new facilities LaRue revealed that the Wendell district was put on the advised list this year, rather than receiving full accreditation by the Northwest Accrediting Association because of the school's inadequate P.E. facilities.

The present facility is merely a basketball court. The wrestling team uses the stage, LaRue said. The concessions room, adjoining the court, is the girls track dressing room in the spring and the junior high football dressing room in the fall. In the winter the room is used as storage for the pep band bleachers which are moved onto the stage for basketball games.

The locker room for P.E. classes would be more correctly called basket rooms since the rooms are large enough to house only wire baskets and a bench.

The proposed P.E. facility would contain concessions room, gymnastic room, wrestling room, weight room, locker rooms, equipment storage and a basketball court with seating for 1836 people. Bleachers and lockers are included in the cost.

LaRue said board members planned for the future when drawing up the plans which take into consideration projected growth for 10-20 years.

The vocational education addition at the P.E. site will include a vocational shop and classroom and a joint office for the teachers. The bond issue passes it will be possible to offer expanded programs to the students. The vocational program would be increased and industrial arts would be offered to students for the first time.

The 105 arts and crafts students who would move to the present vocational building would also receive expanded programs. In the present arts and crafts room there is no space for storage, equipment or students LaRue said. With the passage of the bond election the district would also be able to decrease the number of first and second graders in each class. Students number 30 in some rooms. There are three first grade and three second grade rooms.

The higher grades have only two rooms, meaning the students will be even more crowded when the first and second graders reach the grades with only two classrooms.

The elementary school population is increasing, LaRue said. In 1970 grades one-six totaled 300 students. Now there are 370 students plus the kindergarten class.

The four-room addition planned for the grade school would include three classrooms and a music room. Younger students now have music only in their individual classrooms.

The fifth and sixth grade bands use the high school bandroom. The elementary school has no music department.

The specific education students who must move into the hallway or storage area for two hours a day so the music students may use the room.

The three-block distance from the high school and eight-block distance from the grade school to the new facilities would not create a problem, LaRue said. The elementary students who would use the P.E. complex would be used and the junior and senior high students would easily walk the three block distance.

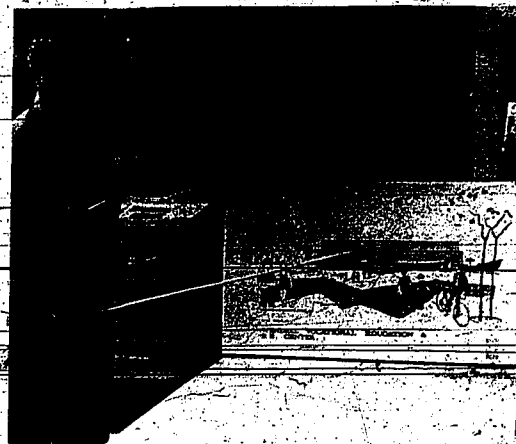

These students already walk about the same distance to the lunchroom at the elementary school. In inclement weather students would be bused, LaRue said.

If approved the new facilities could be ready for the opening of the 1975 school year. Construction could begin this fall after the school year ends.

Architects for the district are Thompson and Kolbo, Boise.

Board members stressed the importance of the P.E. facility. They have already spoken to the chamber of commerce and have asked to be invited to any interested citizen groups.

The district currently conducts adult education classes and permits community use of the present gym. If the bond is approved, community members would also have use of the new

Supt. Lawrence LaRue and plans.

Defamation suit filed

TWIN FALLS — A $50,000 damage suit has been filed in Fifth District Court claiming defamation in an alleged credit investigation connected with a personal injury claim.

The suit was filed by Bessie McKee on behalf of herself and her minor son Chace McKee against Dairyland Insurance Co. and National Retail Credit Co.

In the suit, Mrs. McKee claims that Dairyland in the fall of 1973 requested Retail Credit to conduct an investigation consumer report on her and her 5-year-old son, who was allegedly injured when he ran into a street and was struck by a car driven by a Dairyland policy holder.

Mrs. McKee further claims that Dairyland and Retail Credit failed to disclose to her that the investigative consumer report was being conducted, in violation of the Consumer Credit Protection Act.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. McKee claims that Dairyland and Retail Credit refused a request to disclose information in the credit report, which they allegedly used as a basis for denying the personal injury claim on behalf of Chace McKee.

Mrs. McKee also alleges that Retail Credit failed to follow reasonable procedures to assure maximum accuracy in conducting the credit investigation. She claims that the information was gathered in part through unreliable telephone interviews and that Retail Credit uses a quota system which requires its investigators to develop a certain amount of adverse information.

Thus, Mrs. McKee's suit charges Retail Credit with "grossly negative" and "investigative practices" contrary to the provisions of the Fair Credit Reporting Act. Mrs. McKee also charges that her credit rating and standing have been irreparably damaged as a result of the alleged investigation.

She seeks damages of $10,000 for harm done to her credit reputation; punitive damages of $40,000; attorney fees of $7,500; costs and further relief as the court may grant.

facilities. A fact sheet will be sent home with students the Friday before the election.

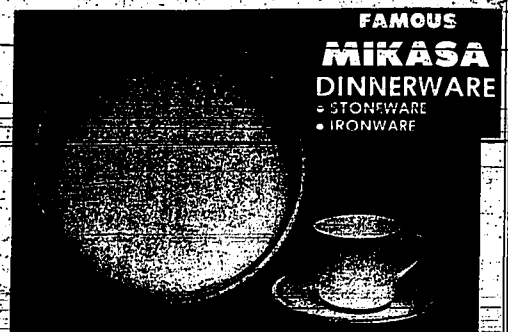

The master plan permits the district to expand further in the future. More classrooms, tennis courts, baseball and softball diamonds and playgrounds can be added when needed, LaRue said.

Camping guide available

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A revised pocketbook camping guide to the National Park System is now available through the U.S. Government Printing Office. The guide lists 29,000 campsites in national parks, specifies the camping season, charges, facilities available, and tells the limitations on trailer size for various campgrounds. The guide, "Camping in the National Park System," may be obtained for 35 cents through the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington D.C. 20402.

Tampa gets NFL club for only $16 million

Thursday, April 25, 1974 Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 19

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League added its own individual tough to America's forthcoming bicentennial anniversary when it awarded an expansion franchise to Tampa, Fla., Wednesday for the 1976 season at a staggering entrance fee of $16 million.

The league owners also said that at least one other city, and possibly more, would be added later this year under the same terms. The sites under consideration are Seattle, Phoenix, Kansas City and Memphis, all of whose bids were discussed at this week's meeting. Seattle, it was learned Wednesday, also is in line for another major league baseball franchise.

The $16 million entrance fee is the most ever required of an expansion franchise in any sport, but neither the NFL nor the Tampa representatives in a immediate mediation considered it excessive.

"Everything in sports is a lot of money," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "Franchises in the NFL have sold in excess of $16 million in recent years, and that would have to be a factor. And a number of other things have changed since the last franchises were available for $4.5 million."

It becomes a question of value received. The franchise owner would be expected to partner in television, which of course will dilute the income of the present 26 teams, and it's the strongest television package in sports, so he'll receive that right off the bat and become a full partner.

Tampa will be the first new city to join the league since the American and National Football Leagues completed their merger in 1970. There are currently 26 teams in the NFL.

Koselle said the owners were grateful to Tampa for a number of reasons, including the stadium, weather and general sports interest. The municipally-owned Tampa Stadium, which is used strictly for football, currently has 46,477 permanent stadium seats and it will be enlarged to 72,000 seats for the new team.

The city and county approved the underwriting of expansion of the stadium based solely on getting an NFL franchise, said Joseph Levy, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Task Force that has worked for six years to bring the NFL to Tampa. "That will be our first task when we return to Tampa."

Boston rips NY to cop East NBA title

BOSTON (UPI) — John Havlicek scored eight of his 33 points as the Boston Celtics ran off a 14-2 spurt at the start of the final period, Wednesday night to beat the New York Knicks 105-94 for the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff title.

The Celtics, who defeated New York four games to one, will meet the Bucks Sunday in Milwaukee to open the championship series.

Several hundred fans crowded around the court in the last minute of play and rushed the victorious Celtics at game's end.

The Celtics, fighting back from a seven-point deficit to go ahead 80-79 after three periods, also got six points from Dave Cowens in their fourth quarter streak.

New York, playing again without center Willis Reed and getting little help from crippled Dave DeBusschere, carried the play through the first half to earn a 52-45 lead.

Phil Jackson was the strongest New York performer, putting 27 points, including 14 in the opening half.

Boston erased its halftime deficit by running off 16 points to give the visitors to grab a 61-59 lead. The lead changed hands 10 times in the remainder of the third period before Cowens took control with two three-point plays in the last two minutes.

Boston tightened its defense in the last quarter, forcing New York into bad shots. The Celtics ran off eight straight points, three of which were by Havlicek and one by Cowens before Jackson hit two foul shots.

The Celtics built the bulge to 13 points several times thereafter and coasted to their first playoff series victory over New York in three straight attempts.

Reds top Cubs on bases-loaded walk

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Bill Bonham walked George Foster with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday to force in the game's only run and give the Cincinnati Reds a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Dave Concepcion opened the ninth with a double to left. Cesar Geronimo then was intentionally passed. Terry Crowley, attempting to sacrifice, forced Concepcion at third. After Pete Rose fled to short left, Joe Morgan beat out an infield hit to load the bases and set the stage for Foster's walk.

Bucs tip Braves on three homers

ATLANTA (UPI) — Manny Sanguillen, Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell hit home runs Wednesday night to power the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Sanguillen's home run, his second of the season, was a two-run smash in the top of the eighth that drove in the deciding runs in the game.

Hebner's homer, his sixth of the year, was a solo shot in the first, and Stargell drove in a pair of runs with his third homer in the fifth.

Pacers hope to keep pressure on Utah Stars

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Pressure may be the name of the game when the Indiana Pacers and the Utah Stars resume their NBA Western Division playoff series Thursday night at Terre Haute, Ind.

The Stars won the first three games in the best-of-seven series, but Indiana has rebounded to win the last two. No pro basketball team has ever come back from an 0-3 deficit to win a playoff series.

"I don't expect to be upset," said Pacers Coach Bobby Leonard, "we will have a good game in three must-win situations, and they have not had that kind of pressure."

"In game seven, it will be their first 'must-win' situation and the pressure won't affect us that much."

A Pacers forward George McGinnis figures the Stars had pressure on them Monday night, when Indiana won game five, 100-91.

"The pressure was on the Stars Monday night, because they missed Zelmo so much. We had nothing to lose," McGinnis said.

His reference was to Zelmo Beaty, the Stars' veteran center who is out with an infection.

"If we can get that game Thursday night," Leonard said, "then it's No. 7 and anything can happen. It would be the greatest comeback I've ever been associated with."

Leonard said the loss of Beaty hurt the Stars, "but on the other hand, we didn't have Roger Brown after the first two games. Brown is the all-time All-Star player."

"That was a factor in the third game," Leonard said. "Actually, with him we might have been able to tie the series at 2-2."

"To win the whole thing, you've got to have luck and breaks. This is the healthiest our club has been since Bob Netelicky broke his wrist. We've finally got our whole team together," he said.

Brown, who had a sprained ankle, and Netelicky are available for duty Thursday night.

"If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played Saturday night in Salt Lake City."

Brown assumes helm of Texas Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former New York Yankee third baseman Dr. Bobby Brown, a part owner of the Texas Rangers, was named Wednesday to succeed Bob Short as the club's president.

Brown, a heart surgeon from Fort Worth, Tex., said he was taking the job on an interim basis, but his fellow club owners said they hoped Brown would stay on as the team's permanent president.

"I am not prepared to make any long-term commitment as president," he said.

Eye-nationals

Bill Muniz of Burley and Earl Smiley, of Twin Falls, both members of Bill Moran's Magic Valley Boxing Club, will shoot for national tournament berths this weekend.

Muniz, at 156 pounds, and Shields, at 165, will participate in the International AAU championships in Layton, where the weight champions advance to nationals in Knoxville, Tenn.

Bucs build Clemente youth fund

SAN JUAN (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirates General Manager Joe L. Brown Wednesday handed a check for $71,735.67 to the widow of Roberto Clemente to add to the fund to build Clemente's dream Sports City for Puerto Rican youth.

The funds were raised during two exhibition games played here last month between the Pirates and the Montreal Expos.

Brown said the support for the fund was evidence of "the respect and love that Roberto had and still has" both on his home island and in Pittsburgh, where the Hall of Fame outfielder starred for so many years.

Clemente died in a plane crash here on Dec. 31, 1972.

Brown said a similar exhibition series would be played here next spring between the Pirates and the New York Yankees.

Joe Sosa, executive director of the Roberto Clemente Sports City committee, announced during the ceremony that about a half million dollars had been raised so far toward the costs of the project, which had been a long-time dream of Clemente's.

Watson ends TF soph career

Ron Watson, sophomore football coach at Twin Falls high school for the past seven years, has resigned that position.

Watson said he hoped to remain in Twin Falls high as a teacher and baseball coach.

Kimberly names Arrossa

George Arrossa, a 1968 graduate of Shoshone high school, will replace Dick Rees as head basketball coach at Kimberly high school next fall.

Arrossa, who graduated from Idaho State in 1972, has been Rees' assistant for the past two seasons where his Jayvees compiled a 31-10 record, won the state championship and the A-2 Jayvee district championship.

"Rees decided to get out of coaching after building the building in the state championship and second in district this spring. There was no pressure put on me to quit, I just decided that I had enough. I plan to remain as a teacher in the near future."

An assistant basketball coach will be named in the near future.

Ron Ballard, chairman of the Kimberly school board, said Wednesday night the board wished to express its appreciation for the work and effort Coach Rees provided over the past three years.

Only five show up for Redskin camp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only five little-known Washington Redskins veterans and a flock of rookies and free agents have responded to Coach George Allen's invitation to two days of special pre-training camp drills beginning Thursday.

All other Redskins apparently will be deliberate no-shows.

Instead of such stars as Larry Brown, Bill Kinler, Sonny Jurgensen and Chris Hanburger, the workouts will feature such names as Mike Hancock, Kenny Stenson, Joe Sweet, Conny Johnson and Martin Imhoff.

At issue in the unofficial boycott by the Washington Redskins is the stalemate in negotiations between the NFL Players' Association and the owners over a new general league contract. Since the talks broke off April 10, similar early drills have been canceled by Kansas City, Houston, New Orleans, Denver and New England on grounds that no veterans would report.

A Redskins spokesman said Allen expects 41 players to be on-hand when the sessions begin Thursday morning. Nine of them will be 1974 draft choices and the rest, except for the five veterans, will be free agents.

Only tight end Hancock and specialty team member Stone were on the Redskins roster last season, and both saw only limited action. Sweet, a wide receiver, was obtained in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams and Johnson, a guard, came from the Baltimore Colts. Imhoff, a defensive end, was dropped by the Colts after last season and joined the Redskins as a free agent.

Basketball inducts new members

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Maurice Podoloff, first president of the National Basketball Association, was inducted into the Naamath Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame Wednesday along with former college stars Harry Fisher and Ernest J. Schmidt.

Podoloff, who lives in New Haven, Conn., was the first president of the Basketball Association of America, which later merged with the old National Basketball League in 1949, he became president of the new group, the NBA. He served until 1962.

Schmidt led Kansas State College, Pittsburg, to four Arkansas Valley conference titles in 1930-33, helping his team score 47 straight victories en route and later starred in AAU basketball with Denver and Reno.

UCLA coach John Wooden was the chief speaker at the Hall of Fame banquet Wednesday night.

Spurrer signs long 49er pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Spurrer, who admits he had been approached by the Florida Sharks of the World Football League, came to town Wednesday long enough to sign a five-year contract with the San Francisco 49ers.

Spurrer, who was No. 1 most of the 1973 season, said he never gave serious thought to jumping from the National Football League to the WFL, and in fact never let his talks with the Sharks progress to a money stage.

"I received a very fair offer from the 49ers," he said, "and I'm extremely happy with it."

Maravich upset about New Orleans shift

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Atlanta's Pat Maravich said Wednesday the Atlanta Hawks star told them "I'm upset and undecided" about a move to send him to the New Orleans team, a new NBA franchise.

"Pete is very distressed, and so are we—that he was not told, beforehand, about the switch," attorney Lester Williams said. "We thought a meeting we had in Atlanta with Hawks officials April 25 about Pete's case was successful and would clear the air."

After the meeting, the team made Maravich the "scapegoat" when the team began losing last night. Maravich and Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons had words after a game in Houston Wednesday night. Williams said the meeting was held at 10:00 and suspended for two days.

"Pete kept quiet during that time. Then my colleague, attorney Art Herskovitz, Pete and I had a three and a half hour meeting with Pat Williams, Hawks' general manager, and John Wilcox, principal owner and president."

"The session was delightful, we thought. Pete was to meet with Fitzsimmons and they would settle their differences."

Then last Friday I read an article saying Pete was going to New Orleans "once his contractual matters were resolved with the Hawks. This surprised me."

Then Williams called Herskovitz last Monday and Wilcox called him the following morning. Both conversations pertained to the Atlanta meeting. Never once did they mention trading Pete.

Tuesday evening Williams called Herskovitz again, saying a deal had been brewing for months with New Orleans and that Pete was making the switch. This flabbergasted Herskovitz.

Atlanta wanted Pete's approval. Pete has a clause in his contract saying he cannot be sent to another team without his approval.

"Pete told us he had made no decision and that he was upset, because the Hawks did not inform him about the talks with New Orleans."

Maravich had stated earlier that he would be willing to leave the Hawks only if they sent him to an NBA contender.

Players to fight ban on jumping

DALLAS (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association may fight a Dallas Cowboys legal suit which seeks to stop its players from jumping to the new World Football League.

A state district court hearing is set next Tuesday on a temporary restraining order which prevents the NFL from signing any Cowboy players until their contracts expire.

Quarterback Craig Morton and running back Calvin Hill have signed with the new league and the court orders prohibits them from publicizing the WFL.

Ed Garvey, the Players' Association attorney, said his group was going to be involved in this entire matter. We are coordinating with various attorneys involved."

Nicklaus heavily favored in tourney of champions

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus just about always has been the favorite to win the Tourney of Champions and he is easily the favorite to place the $40,000 top money and win the event for a fifth time when the select field of 25 top golfers starts play Thursday. The odds makers made Nicklaus a 4-1 favorite, with Lee Trevino, who lost to Nicklaus by one shot last year, rated second at 6-1.

Nicklaus recently has been complaining about his "game but Trevino doesn't think that is good news at all. "Watch out when he does that," Trevino said. "It means he is ready to win by three strokes like he did to us in Hawaii." Trevino, who skipped the Masters tournament because he doesn't like the Augusta National course, said he did think it was good news, the fact that Nicklaus has been made tougher for the T of C.

Perry brothers happy about record but like wins better

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jim and Gaylord Perry, the top-pitching brother duo in modern baseball, are more interested in helping the Cleveland Indians to a winning record than in setting personal marks.

After Gaylord beat the Oakland Athletics 2-1 Tuesday or their cumulative 21-17 record—surpassing the mark of Christy and Henry Mathewson—his reaction was that snapping a four-game losing streak was more important.

"It was like most games," he said. "I threw a combination of pitches. I mixed them up. I have to do that—I'm not the kind of guy who can rely on one pitch for a whole game."

"It means something that we set the record while we're on the same team. We can enjoy it together. But it's not something we thought about all the time we were growing up."

Jim, at 37 two years older than Gaylord, was excited enough to call the record "great," but he agreed that it was not "constantly" preying upon their minds.

The most important thing is having stayed healthy, taking good care of ourselves," he said. He is in his 17th year of baseball and Gaylord in his 15th, but until last year they had never even faced each other as pros.

Jim was a career American League and Gaylord was in the National until 1972 when he was traded to the Indians. Last year, they started against one another but neither finished the game nor did either get the decision.

90 homers.

LEADING SLUGGER in the major leagues is Yankee third baseman Earl Nettles, who displays bats representing the 10 homers he's hit this season. At this pace Nettles would wind up the season with 90. "Would you believe?" (UPI telephoto).

Seattle will drop suit for AL team

SEATTLE (UPI) — The lawsuit changing the American League's rules on franchise transfers with fraud and antitrust violations, will be terminated shortly with the announcement of an out of court settlement, UPI has learned.

A key condition of the settlement could be the assurance that Seattle will get a franchise the next time baseball expands, which is expected to be within two years.

Although the case has gone to trial and a jury has been selected at Everett, Wash., there were signs behind the scenes Wednesday the complicated legal battle was moving toward a settlement.

Seattle, Toronto, New Orleans and Buffalo were regarded as prime candidates for new franchises when they are formed.

A jury of nine women and three men, none of them particularly knowledgeable about the workings of Major League Baseball, was selected Monday, then excused until next Monday. The rest of this week was to be used by both parties to establish the authenticity and admissibility of stacks of documents that may be offered as evidence.

after the one-season Seattle Pilots franchise (1969) was sold and transferred to Milwaukee under the flag of the Brewers. "Triple damages claimed in the suit would amount to $20 million."

The trial was moved from here to Everett on a charge of venue.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES The daytime finds you much too likely to look for conditions which make you feel imposed upon so you can complain. But by so doing, you are actually imposing upon others, so adopt a cheerful outlook instead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Comfort and encourage kin; then entertain at home in the p.m. Get rid of whatever spoils the harmony that should be there.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Carry through with duties, since they are important though boring. Postpone vital talks until Saturday. Get shopping, other errands done now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study monetary matters to solve such problems, and increase income. A bigwig can help you get ahead faster. Accept invitation in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't get angry with others, but because you're in the doldrums, then you can enjoy social pleasures in p.m. Some personal improvement can attract others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can remove obstacles to progress, until noon, then get into studies important to your advancement. Evening can be romantically delightful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Do what is necessary to gain your finest personal aims. Think over how to please your friends more now. Show more concern for their welfare and happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Be conscientious, especially about credit and career affairs. Some entertainment at places you like with congenials is good in p.m. Don't argue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Test your ideas for their real worth now, and put only the best to work. Push goals for greater success. Await a better time for enjoying company of friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget about going off on tangents and keep the promises made to others. Show true affection to mate, in p.m., and she will be responsive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can get very angry with a partner who spoils one of your pet plans, but keep silent and tomorrow he will make amends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have much work to do that may appear boring, but it is necessary to do it. Evening is best time to tune up your system.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) While busy at work, plan how to have more enjoyment in life in the future. Get into the recreation of your choice in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be born with a sort of divine discontent. Teach early to rise above such negative thinking, then the life becomes successful, especially where serving the public is concerned, particularly with commodities. Be sure you are not harsh with the child who could be very resentful. Give a good religious training, early in life. Teach to respect others, also.

The Stars impel: they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

How to Attract Good Luck is the title of a book written in 1922 by presidential advisor and author Mr. Carl L. Lundy. You can win a game without entering, said Carl. If you want to attract good luck, therefore, you must appear to be a heavy loser. Lundy's book is a collection of luck sayings, some of which are, however, that means meet and mingle, the point is obvious, you say. Maybe, but not L. and W. man receives numerous notes from unhappy souls who decline to accept, but complain of loneliness.

RAPE CASES—Police records indicate more than 100 rape cases were reported in 1973. The old Greek believed Pandora, not Eve, was the first woman on earth. It is said 8 out of 10 lawyers handle 80 percent of the divorces. Eskimos use a Cree Indian word that means "raw meat eating." Sports car language means: A lawyer doctor named Ian Rubin completely ran out of live answers can be quoted, even cursed by treatment.

Wait, don't put your hand in your pocket! Now how many times does the word "time" appear on a dime? And how many times does "ten cents" appear there? Spelling the alphabet on an unusual alphabet money chart and the answer will be found. "Dime" shows up once. "Ten cents" not at all.

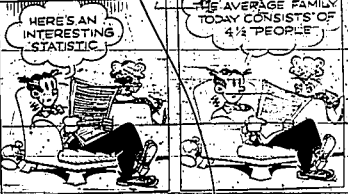

Mother, how would you like to have your own personal clock on the wall ready to hand you a whole roast chicken on a plate at any hour of the day or night? Napoleon enjoyed that luxury.

COINS—Q: How many coins have we minted, beating the portraits of celebrated persons? A: Just seven—Lincoln, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, and Franklin. Dimes: 1942—Washington quarter, 1942—Jefferson nickel, 1942—Lincoln half dollar, 1942—Franklin D. Roosevelt dime, 1942—Kennedy half dollar, in the last decade. And Eisenhower dollar, in this decade.

TEACHERS—When you were a student, did you ever have a class under a teacher you thought was a little right in the head? If so, imagine you were a winning Dr. Louis Kaplan, looking into his future, predicted a total alienating teachers. And he concluded that about three thousand children daily deal with teachers who are seriously neurotic, if not downright psychopathic. Shocking, isn't it? Teachers in general are as stable as any profession, "new course" but those who deal with students are thought to inflict more harm than mental malice elsewhere. Once had a choral teacher who twice weekly tipped her apron and also sectioned ribbons with sarcasm. We wound up that year with a "best" choral only. And several dozen little girls gave up hopes to sing again.

The 1974 Audi: the luxury car with the luxury of 24 m.p.g.

You can panic and put your luxury car out to pasture during the gasoline crisis.
Of you can ride it out in luxury in an Audi.
Really ride it out.
The Audi 100LS gives you 24 miles of ride to the gallon.
Twenty-four luxurious Audi miles. In an interior so lush you can hardly tell it from a Mercedes 280. With so much legroom and headroom you'd think you were in a Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.
And the kind of smooth controlled ride only independent front suspension can give you (ask an Aston Martin driver about that).
Combined with the traction and stability of front wheel drive. The kind you'd find in a Cadillac Eldorado.
So, you see? You still have the luxury of choosing luxury.

Audi 100LS

A lot of cars for the money.
A lot of miles to the gallon.

HERE AT LAST!

Judge sentences TF man

TWIN FALLS — Roy E. Hanna, 50, Twin Falls, was sentenced to 14 years in the Idaho state prison after pleading guilty to defrauding the Dwynd Standard Station of some $500.

Hanna reportedly paid a $100 repair bill for his automobile with a $533.78 bogus check taking the remainder in cash. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge on Monday and was sentenced by Fifth District Judge James M. Cunningham.

The court also heard a plea of innocent from Robert Hodges, 31, Twin Falls, to charges of issuing an insufficient funds check. He is scheduled for trial May 2 at 9 a.m.

Yard sale posters

HARRISON yard sale poster winners display their art. Left to right are Steve Andrus, fifth grade; Cathy Conant, fourth grade; and Gladys Crow, sixth grade. Harrison School PTO is sponsoring a giant yard sale and carnival Saturday. The sale will open at 8:30 a.m. at Harrison School. At carnival will be set up at 10 a.m. and lunch will be available starting at 11 a.m. This "family fun day" will last until 4 p.m. A bike and paintings will be given away. Proceeds from the event will go toward building the "creative playground" being constructed out of entirely natural materials at Harrison. Parents of Harrison school children are building the playground.

Possession brings jail

BURLEY — A three-year sentence was handed down in the case of a man involved in a March 10 drug raid in a local motel.

Richard Vagstad, 23, Tempe, Ariz., was sentenced to the Idaho State Penitentiary for possession of a controlled substance, cocaine, following his arrest March 10 by Burley police.

John Hernandez, 25, Monte Vista, Ariz.; Raul Resendez, 26, Burley; and Manuel German, 20, Nogales, Mexico were arrested in the same raid.

Resendez was later released with a fine after being charged with carrying a concealed weapon. German was turned over to US immigration authorities for return to Mexico as an illegal alien. Hernandez has pleaded not guilty to possession of illegal drugs and will face trial in May District Judge Sherman Bellwood held 120 days jurisdiction in the Verdugo case.

Gregory Marshall, 18, Conrad Creek, pleaded guilty to charges of statutory rape of a 16-year-old Malla girl. Judge Bellwood sentenced him to one year's probation.

A not guilty plea was entered by Frank D. Rose, 27, Pocatello, to charges of second degree burglary. Rose was charged with entry into the office of Dr. Max Banner April 2. No trial date has been set.

Sentencing has been scheduled for April 29 for Victor Shaner, 18, High Creek Wall, 19, both Rupert. Both entered a guilty plea to first degree burglary charges involving a break-in at the Skylene Bar, Burley.
